Beer and wine sales:

The vote went 50-50 out on Georgetown's streets

How do average Georgetown area residents feel about legalizing sales of beer and wine here and throughout the rest of Williamson County Justice Precinct One, with the local option election less than a week away?

In an effort to find out, THE SUN conducted ten random interviews late last week, nine on the street and one over the phone. Interestingly enough, we came up with a dead-even split, five for and five against.

Our interviews were conducted on the parking lots of two local shopping centers, with the exception of the one opinion phoned in to us. We talked with a fairly representative cross-section of young and old, men and women, blacks, browns, white, blue collars and white collars. Besides names, addresses, and occupations, we asked our interviewees in most cases: how long they'd lived in Georgetown; whether they intended to vote and how they would vote; why they would vote that way; and how they figured the results would turn out.

Neither our cross-section nor the split result were really planned, they just worked out that way. We don't claim this necessarily reflects the trend of public opinion (this not being a scientific poll), nor would we predict here how the election will turn out.

But we found the answers interesting and we think you will too. They ran as follows.

CARMEN GARAY, 509 Cedar Rd., teacher at the Georgetown Primary School: "I'm going to vote no, against sales. For one thing, I think it's bad for the Georgetown area. If it would bring in only stuff like nice drinking places

JOHNNY TATUM of 2301 Cottonwood, member of the University of Texas French department: "I'm for it, because people are going to buy beer and wine anyway. Anyone who wants to buy it isn't going to be stopped by a city ordinance, and it's safer to buy it here than to go out and get drunk and then drive home. Besides, Georgetown is losing all that money beer and wine sales would bring in. All the people I know well are for it. But the things I've read in THE SUN and heard elsewhere are against it. I think it will fail."

BEN GUJARDO, 1510 Timber St., Austin employee and life-long Georgetown resident: "I'm for it to stay as it is, dry. We have managed to keep the city more peaceful that way, and I think that has been the cause for the good standards we have here. A lot of people moved here for that

the passing glance

By Don Scarbrough

Checking figures sent us by Comptroller Bob Bullock I found, somewhat to my surprise, that the combined tax on liquor, ale, wine and beer accounted for slightly more than 2 tenths of 1 percent of our State of Texas tax income.

BIGGEST MONEY-GATHERER was the sales tax, which brought in considerably more than all the taxes on oil production, natural and casinghead gas, gasoline and cigarettes. That's the reason why, when the solons begin looking around for some extra tax revenue, they are tempted simply to add another penny to the sales tax. It's a broad-based scheme, which means that just plain folks who don't have a lobby working for them, pay it.

Bob and Mattie Gaines, an ancient and admirable black couple who have hundreds of friends among the white brethren of the area, are in a bad fix. Both are ill, living in the home and under the care of a relative, Mrs. Ada Mae Warren, Route 2, Box 693A, Austin, Tx., 78704. Mattie fell several weeks ago and broke a hip, which has been pinned. Bob has circulatory problems that necessitated the removal of a toe and continued treatment. Both are over 90.

HUNDREDS OF FORMER Southwestern University ex-students relate to Bob. He and his older brother, Jesse, who died about 20 years ago, worked in Mood Hall nearly half a century and he was there when it opened in 1908. Bob is famed as a fisherman, cook, storyteller and historian. He has an incredible memory and instantly recognizes people he hasn't seen for thirty or forty years, along with stories of their deeds while in college. One of these, "Dutch" O'Neil, came through town a few weeks ago, discovered Bob and Mattie were hospitalized, and gave me $100 to pass along to them. A few days later he mailed me a substantial check as an additional gift. Unfortunately, there haven't been too many of these, so if anyone wants to send them a note and enclose a $1 or $10 bill, it can be put to good use.

A LADY CALLED Thursday morning to say that the longtime occupant of the ancient and long neglected old home southeast of the Andice over pass in north town, built by George Glasscock, Jr., was owned and occupied for many years by the family of Isaac Milton Williams. The house has now been moved to Weir and is to be renovated. Williams was a prominent person here and, I understand, Williams Drive was named in his honor.

Georgetown's Historical Preservation Commission is one of only 11 such bodies in Texas and the only one of its kind among Central Texas cities of comparable population, according to a recently released national survey.

The Directory of Landmark and Historic District Commissions, published last October by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, lists the organization among nearly 500 local governmental commissions nationwide which designate historic properties and review changes to such properties. Also included in the list are historic commissions in Austin, Castroville, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Granbury, Laredo, New Braunfels, and San Antonio.

ESTABLISHED by the Georgetown City Council on Aug. 11, 1975, the commission consists of five members serving three year terms. Present members are Joe Long, Jack Webernick, Albert Evans, Edward Evans, and Donna Scarbrough.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation is the only private, nonprofit organization chartered by Congress with the responsibility to encourage public participation in the preservation of sites, buildings, and objects significant in American history and culture.

The agency compiled its directory during the summer of 1976 as an updated and expanded version of a previous preliminary directory.

GEORGETOWN'S commission is currently applying to have the city's Town Square Historical District (also established in August, 1975) listed in the National Register, a directory of historical sites, structures, objects, and districts.

Operated by the National Park Service's Office of Archaeology and Historical Preservation, the list includes 398 historical areas in Texas.

Among them are the Tinnen House and Southwestern University's Mood Hall in Georgetown, and the Brushy Creek Inn and Captain Merrell House in Round Rock.

The Georgetown Family Planning Clinic will be open this week in its new location, 804 Main Street (next door to the KGTN entrance). Appointments can be made by telephone—863-8653. The clinic will be open 8 to 5, Monday through Friday.

JOE WILLIAMS, Director of the National Register Program for the Texas Historical Commission, said Thursday that the Town Square application had been approved by a state review committee and probably will be in the Register's Washington, D. C. office by early next week.

"We don't anticipate any problem with having the district qualify for the Register," said Williams.

Week's news in a nutshell

The upper half of the nation was in deep-freeze as the SUNDAY SUN went to press. Gas was running short in many states, cars were stalled, schools and business firms were closed and the nation was having a preview of what may happen everywhere in just a few years unless our new administration gets on the ball and does something about the energy problem.

Cold weather was back in Central Texas too, but there was adequate gas and electricity to meet the problem.

WHY NOISY NEWS SELLS PAPERS

But when a Sacramento tabloid calling itself the "Good News Paper" tried printing only "good news," it went broke within 36 months.

The "good news" most people say they want — they won't buy.

What do newspaper readers really want?

I'VE ATTENDED MANY conferences of young Americans, sometimes thousands of them — in church groups, scholastic groups, 4-H — recommitting themselves to improving the status quo. And I've wondered why such gatherings are rarely considered "newsworthy," when a handful of kids with a smoke bomb is.

But that's the way it is. And we must share the blame.

WITH THE WINDUP of each year, men and women of the news media are polled for their opinions of which stories were the "big" ones.

But this last year the Indianapolis Star also asked its readers the same question.

A comparison of the two surveys is interesting. Here are the 1976 stories, rated for their importance, by news editors:

- 1-The presidential campaign and election.
- 2-Revelations of illegal acts by the CIA and FBI.
- 3-Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai die; China changes.
- 4-Upheaval in southern Africa.
- 5-Earthquakes in China, Italy, Guatemala and so forth.
- 6-Chowchilla, Calif., school bus kidnapping.
- 7-Washington sex scandals.
- 8-Legionnaires disease.
- 9-Civil War in Lebanon.
- 10-U. S. soldiers killed in Korean DMZ.

THOSE ARE THE 10 STORIES newspaper, radio and TV news editors considered most significant. Only three of those 10 stories could be considered sordid, seductive or morbid. Now here are the 10 stories which newspaper readers considered most important:

- 1-The presidential campaign and election.
- 2-The Patty Hearst trial.
- 3-Washington sex scandals.
- 4-Legionnaires disease.
- 5-Bicentennial celebrations.
- 6-Swine flu (the threat that never developed).
- 7-The school bus kidnapping.
- 8-The death of Howard Hughes.
- 9-The Karen Quinlan decision.
- 10-The unmanned landing on Mars.

Not one of these reader preference stories concerns foreign or international news.

But seven of the 10 could be called "sensational," either libidinous or morbid.

AND SIGNIFICANTLY the one story which had the greatest impact on our and future generations of Americans was not mentioned, neither by the professionals nor by the consumers: "inflation—the erosion of our currency."

So the inescapable conclusion is that you'd rather hear about one gunshot than about a thousand prayers.

And so you will.

Mouthful of ashes

Just a few weeks ago the Austin American-Statesman had a featured story on bondsman Frank Smith, telling of his money and his power.

THIS WEEK THE TALE was quite different. Bondsman Smith is under indictment of a state grand jury and is nowhere to be found. He said he was going south to do some fishing several days ago. Where he is no one seems to know, or, at least they didn't when this was written Thursday.

One more conviction for this wealthy man, recently labeled powerful, will mean that he is an habitual criminal, a charge that carries a mandatory life sentence.

His plight underscores the Christian concept that the guy who relies on and relates to the temporal things of life often winds up with a mouthful of ashes.

Thirteen congressmen, it was disclosed, have visited the African nation of Lesotho as part of the scandalous junketing at public expense that congressmen are prone to do when they're not in session in Washington.

All but two were grabbing $75 per day in U. S. taxpayers' money for "expenses" although the expenses were being borne by the government of Lesotho.

What they hoped to accomplish in the way of advancing the interests of the U. S. by trekking to Lesotho is anybody's guess. — Jacksonville Journal (Florida)

Carter weighs negative income tax

By Richard L. Street

Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor
Washington

Some 14 million to 16 million American families whose income is too low to pay income taxes may receive rebates from the government at approximately $50 per "exemption" in a striking plan to stimulate the economy and reduce poverty that is now being formulated by the Carter administration.

The Carter rebate program, to be revealed this week, would cost an estimated $1.5 billion.

The idea of stimulating the economy by tax cuts or government spending goes back to British economist Keynes, but the problem is to reach the low-income groups who are below the line of income tax payments. They could be reached by government works in a revival of the New Deal's WPA (Works Progress Administration) used by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1930s. But that takes time to organize.

What seems to be under way is the application of a form of the negative income tax (NIT) advocated by Nobel Prize-winner Milton Friedman of Chicago University.

Its main thrust is simple: Everybody files income tax returns; those with incomes above a certain level pay taxes to the government; those below a certain level get payments from the government.

Radical though it seems, former President Ford endorsed the theory in January, 1975, in his State of the Union message. Nonetheless some economists, regard Professor Friedman as far too conservative. He would abolish most, or all, of present welfare payments and substitute cash government payments letting recipients decide how they would spend their money and replacing the huge welfare supervisory structure in part by the relative simplicity of income tax forms.

Handling the proposal now is Brookings Institution tax expert Barry Bosworth along with Charles L. Schultze, just installed chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. The proposal, if accepted, will be part of the larger $30 billion, two-year Carter economic stimulation package. If carried through and approved by Congress it would involve direct cash Treasury checks of $50 being sent to 1976 taxpayers in the form of rebates — perhaps totaling more than $10 billion.

The tentative new feature would be that those who have filled out income tax forms showing they are below the tax-paying ceiling would themselves get checks back from the government, although they paid nothing in. It is estimated that something over 15 million American families (or individuals) fall below the non-income tax paying poverty line. For a fam-

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I brought my family to live in Georgetown almost fifteen years ago — one of the main reasons being that it was a good, clean town without bars or taverns.

We had lived for four years in a community where alcohol was easily accessible and was a factor in much of the Emergency room work from minor violence to major accidents. I am still convinced that most major wrecks and violence have alcohol involved.

My family is happy in Georgetown, and I feel that many newcomers here have chosen Georgetown because it is a good town. I'd like to Keep Georgetown As Good As It Is so I'll vote against the sale of wine and beer on 5 Feb. 1977.

Sincerely,
James L. Shepherd,
M.D.
1408 Laurel St.
Georgetown, Tx.

Dear Editor:

We appreciate the opportunity that you are giving to express our feelings concerning the sale of beer and wine for on or off premise consumption in Georgetown and surrounding area.

We came to Georgetown 20 years ago, have raised our five children here, and have appreciated so much the clean,

ity of four living below the poverty line, the government's return would be $200.

Here is what former President Ford said about the idea in 1975:

"Those with the very lowest incomes, who can least afford higher costs, must also be compensated. I propose a payment of $80 to every person 18 years of age and older in that category."

Former President Richard Nixon had a variant of the negative income tax in his unsuccessful Family Assistance Program which proposed a supplemental federal income for the working poor.

Government checks to people for doing nothing? It is anathema to many. Milton Friedman, an adviser to Sen. Barry Goldwater in the 1964 election, publicized his proposal from 1965 to 1968, before he was president of the American Economic Association.

Should NIT recipients get benefits in cash rather than kind — like food stamps? Yes, says Professor Friedman; let them build self-reliance by running their own lives and cut down, to some degree, the welfare bureaucracy. He argues that social workers spend nine-tenths of their time as paymasters and policemen snooping on welfare recipients. He rejects a means test for NIT recipients: He wants no more of a means test than that of the ordinary income tax return now applicable to all. And some Carter aides apparently agree.

friendly, safe town for family living. We think the area should stay "as good as it is" and that will not be possible with sale of alcoholic beverages here. We feel that persons who want that sort of thing should go to an area where it exists, not come to our town and mess it up with beer joints, bars and taverns. Someone has mentioned that we need commercial growth—that kind we don't need. We urge every registered voter in Precinct 1 to scratch the "For the sale, etc." off the ballot on February 5. Let's vote so strongly against it that it will discourage promoting an election every few years.

Yours for a better Georgetown,

Someone sold the people that alcohol is a great tax boon. Somehow the concern for life which was so rightfully exercised in the swine flu program just is not present in a discussion of alcohol. Three deaths stopped a program whose aim was to do good. 700 deaths fail to stop an evil which produces no good at all!

Do you need any other reason for opposing the sale and use of alcohol.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — This summer may see Gov. Dolph Briscoe with a hand-picked majority of appointees on another major State agency—the State Board of Insurance.

LONG-TIME MEMBER Durwood Manford's term expires Monday, giving the governor one opening—and Chairman Joe Christie (whose term runs to Jan. 31, 1981) has indicated he has plans to move on.

But there aren't any indications that Briscoe feels any overwhelming need to replace Manford—if indeed Manford is to be replaced—any time soon.

Briscoe's handling of appointments (admittedly like that of some of his predecessors) tends to be somewhat erratic: those of the University of Texas and Texas A&M regents moved out quickly; others (like that of Banking Board member Jim Lindsey of College Station) have been allowed to hang for a couple of years.

Christie has said publicly he opposes reappointment of Manford, who has been a stumbling block to some of Christie's projects at the board.

Recently, the irritations between Manford and the third member of the board, Ned Price, reached the flash point—and Manford and Price engaged in a brief bout of fisticuffs.

But that doesn't mean that Manford is on the way out.

IN ADDITION TO BEING acceptable to the insurance industry (whose members are known to contribute to gubernatorial campaigns), Manford and Briscoe are colleagues of sorts—having served together in the House (when Manford was Speaker).

Still, there's plenty of speculation as to who may be named to the board—with at least one large Austin public relations firm testing the water on behalf of potential nominees.

And there seems to be plenty of potential nominees. Briscoe's appointment secretary, George Lowrance, confirms that there is "fairly large" group being considered, apparently including Manford—although Lowrance doesn't indicate just who may be on the governor's list.

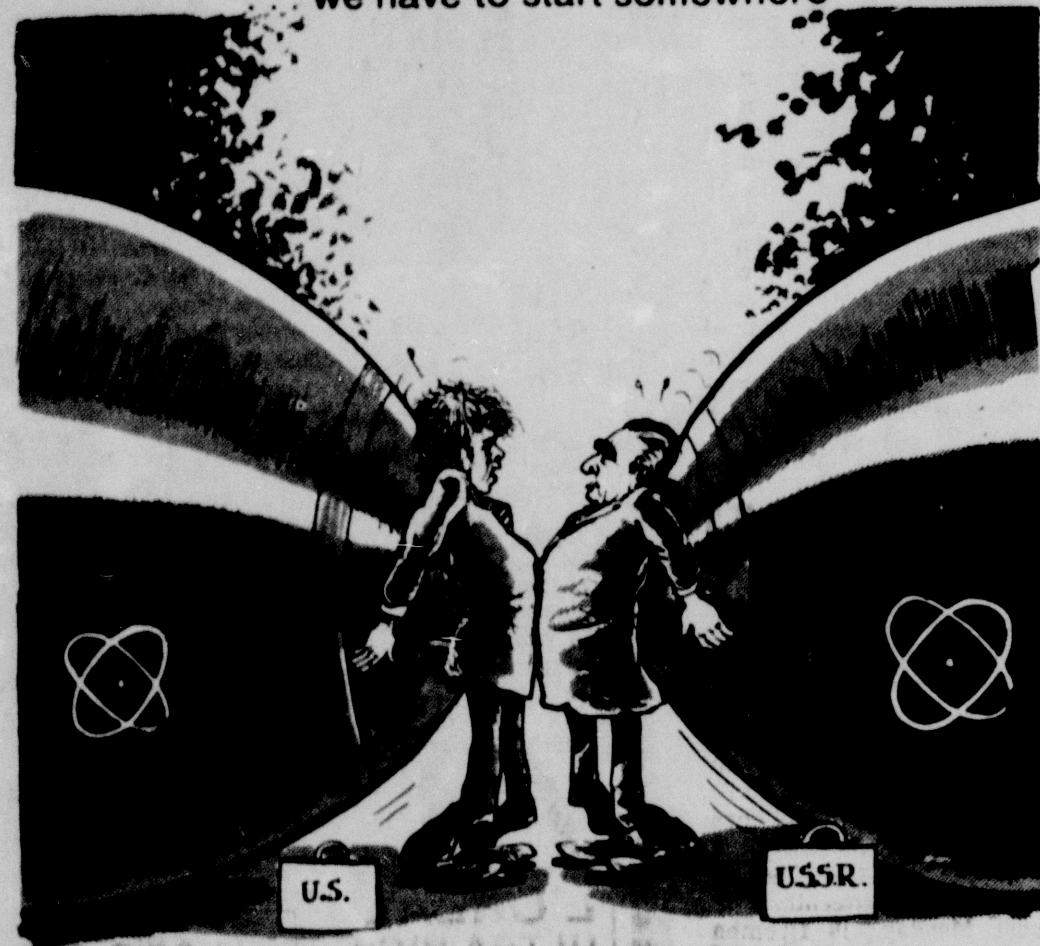

BUT AMONG THOSE who have been named are former State Rep. John Poerner of Hondo, now heading up Briscoe's Office of Educational Resources; former State Rep. Don Cavness of Austin, a long-time sponsor of insurance legislation in the House, and now a lobbyist for groups including the Independent Bankers Association of Texas; former State Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock, an active sponsor of insurance legislation and popular with his former colleagues (who would have to vote to confirm him); Dallas County Commissioner David Pickett; Houston attorney Harrison Vickers; and Bryan businessman Tom Lukens.

Right now, such bets as there are indicate no one expects Briscoe to make any move until after the Legislature leaves — which will be the time he'll announce his political plans (eliminating what little doubt there is that he'll run again), and the time that Christie has said that he'll announce his plans.

BESIDES ELIMINATING any possibility of a fight over the nomination — or nominations — in the Senate, that time could also give Briscoe an additional reason for retaining Manford if he wishes to: namely, that if Christie leaves as expected, it would be well to have two rather than one experienced board member on hand to run the Board of Insurance.

But Briscoe also has Christie's example to point to, if he wants to argue that a capable man, with the backing of qualified assistants and staff, can pick up the necessary knowledge to quickly handle, the insurance aspects of the job.

Howard Hughes' Will Resurfaces

WASHINGTON — Five years ago we reported that reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes was a thin, emaciated wreck of a man, neglected by his aides and isolated from the world around him. Our description of Hughes noted that his hair was long, straggly and snarled. His fingernails and toenails, we said, were long and curling. At the time, the story was denied.

After flying to Mexico to investigate the billionaire's last days there, we amassed enough evidence to convince Mexican authorities to help us with our investigation. Their report confirmed our early descriptions of Hughes and his life as a virtual prisoner.

In a massive Acapulco penthouse, Hughes was consigned to a small, back room with boarded windows while his aides occupied large, luxurious seaside digs. Mexican police have charged that the aides neglected Hughes horribly. The billionaire was allowed to dangerously dehydrate and his once tall broad body shriveled to a bare 90 pounds. He had open bedsores, his teeth were badly decayed and of course, his hair and fingernails were exactly as we described them years ago. Mexican police told us they would have charged Hughes' aides with criminal neglect if they had remained in the country. At our suggestion, the police raided the Acapulco penthouse and confiscated thousands of documents. We then arranged with former Treasury Secy. William Simon to have U.S. Internal Revenue Service agents photograph the documents in Mexico City. One of them is of special interest. It is a memo about the Hughes will.

Undated and unsigned, the memo was found in a folder labeled September, 1975. There is nothing unusual about the memo being unsigned, because many internal memos were habitually unsigned by Hughes. But this particular memo indicates that the billionaire's executive secretary, Nadine Henley, was holding a will in her custody.

Nadine Henley regarded the will in her possession to be Hughes' true will. But the memo notes that another handwritten will also existed. The memo suggests, therefore, that Hughes straightened out his wills before he died.

Coffee Curse: We have learned that repeated tests on animals show that the caffeine found in coffee may cause birth defects. The researchers have concluded, therefore, that pregnant women definitely should not drink coffee.

Though it's the responsibility of the Food and Drug Administration to protect the public from unsafe beverages, the agency so far has refused to order warning labels on coffee. There was a showdown on the subject recently within the FDA itself.

Michael Jacobson, director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, vainly pleaded his case for warning labels to apparently deaf official ears. While placidly downing one cup of coffee after another, Howard Roberts, the top FDA official at the meeting, flatly turned down the consumer advocate's plea. Roberts insisted that there isn't enough evidence to prove that coffee is a serious health threat.

Swine Flu Fiasco: We've discovered that one critical reason for the swine flu fiasco dates back to a feud between former President Richard Nixon and the last U.S. Surgeon General, Jesse Steinfeld.

As the nation's top medical officer, Steinfeld regularly stood up to industry pressure on public health hazards like phosphates, cyclamates and pesticides. But Nixon wanted to give industry cronies a break from Steinfeld's unyielding positions. He couldn't fire the Surgeon General so he simply froze Steinfeld out of policy-making decisions. Predictably, Steinfeld resigned his position in disgust. Major health policy decisions were then taken over completely by the White House and former President Gerald Ford continued the White House control.

It was a White House decision to begin the swine flu inoculations. But the cure has turned out to be more dangerous than the disease. When hospitals began reporting strange cases of paralysis associated with the inoculations, the program was abruptly suspended by embarrassed White House officials on Dec. 16, 1976.

Our sources say that the Surgeon General, conscientious as he is about public health hazards, would never have gone ahead with the shots without a more careful study of the side effects. These sources say that the immunization program was an ill-conceived political gimmick designed to counter the swine flu panic gripping the nation. It was not, say our sources, a legitimate case of preventive medicine.

Happily, the White House is now moving out of the health business. The new Secy. of Health, Education and Welfare, Joseph Califano, is quietly looking for a Surgeon General to fill the four-year vacancy.

Citizen Lazarus: Seven of last year's congressional elections are still contested. But the most bitter of all is the battle to succeed Louisiana's crusty old F. Edward Hebert.

Charges and countercharges have led to lawsuits and criminal investigations. Now, federal investigators have confirmed our findings on the matter. In that election, at least three dead people did their civic duty by voting.

Get ready for spaghetti, Tues.

Spaghetti will provide a cure for your hunger and a purge of Westside's debt for its latest safety project.

The Georgetown P.T.A. is planning a spaghetti supper at Westside Elementary School from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 1.

WESTSIDE HAS recently installed a new paved area where parents may come to pick up and drop off their children. The area includes a protective enclosure in which the students stand and several auto exit ways to aid the flow of traffic. Funds raised from the supper will go to help pay for this project.

Before the new pick-up area was built parents had to pick up their children out on busy Scenic Drive. There is no marked school zone at Westside, no cross walks and no area designated for student loading. Small children darting out in the street and cars stopping to load presented a safety hazard. The new area is much safer and much easier on both parents and students.

In addition to the spaghetti, the P.T.A. plans to have a dessert booth in the gymnasium, where the Westside choir will be entertaining throughout the evening. Door prizes will be given away.

Tickets for the spaghetti feast are $1.75 for adults and $1.00 for children. Large family groups, which include two adults, will receive a special rate of $8.00 for 7 to 10 people. Advance tickets may be purchased at Draeger Motors and tickets will also be available at the door.

DR. WATTS

Services held for Dr. Watts

Memorial services for longtime Southwestern University professor the Reverend Harvey D. Watts were scheduled to be held Saturday at 4 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Georgetown. Interment will be in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery.

The Rev. Watts died Thursday afternoon in the Georgetown Hospital.

In lieu of flowers, the family has asked that memorial gifts be made to the Nan Philpott P. Ellis Scholarship Fund at Southwestern University.

A graduate of Southwestern, Rev. Watts was a member of the faculty at the University for 30 years where he was associate professor of religion and philosophy and where he also taught Greek for many years.

He originated and taught a unique course in "New Thought Movements" at Southwestern. And he was the longtime tennis coach at the University.

Rev. Watts also served as chaplain of the Methodist Children's Home in Waco, and was a scoutmaster in Georgetown for many years.

Before returning to Southwestern as a member of the faculty, the Rev. Watts earned a master's degree and a bachelor of divinity degree at Perkins School of Theology and also did considerable graduate work at the University of Chicago.

He was born on April 3, 1908, in Greenville, Texas.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian, of Georgetown; by two sons, Dr. David Watts of San Francisco and Bill Watts of Houston; by a sister, Mrs. Walter Ray of Talpa; and by five grandchildren, Elizabeth, Jennifer, Rebecca, David, Christopher, and Andrew Watts.

Pedro Cruz Muniz, on advice from his attorney Ruben Sandoval of San Antonio, told District Judge Bill Lott that he would waive his right to a speedy trial in order to give Sandoval more time to prepare several pre-trial motions and present them to the court before a trial date is set.

MUNIZ, who is under indictment for capital murder in the death of a 19-year-old Southwestern University coed in Georgetown last December, appeared in District Court at docket call last Thursday morning.

JUDGE LOTT scheduled three dates in February and March for pre-trial motions in the Muniz case.

Muniz will appear in District Court in Georgetown again on Friday February 4, at 9:30 a.m. Sandoval is expected to present a discovery motion to the court at that time. The motion will request that the state appoint and fund a private investigator to search for additional evidence in the case.

On February 11, Sandoval is scheduled to appear in court to present a motion for a change of venue. Judge Lott will hear the request to move the trial location to another district court, and decide if the change of venue will be granted.

SANDOVAL had not yet filed a copy of the motion for a change of venue with District Attorney Ed Walsh on Thursday, but Walsh expects to receive it at least five days before the scheduled hearing.

Muniz and Sandoval will return to the district courtroom on March 11 for a full pre-trial hearing. At this time all other pre-trial motions from Sandoval are scheduled to be heard.

WHEN ASKED what these other pre-trial motions will be, Walsh said, "I have no idea what it will include."

In cases where the defendant is in jail, we try to set the trial as quickly as possible, said Walsh.

Mr. Muniz has waived his constitutional right to a speedy trial in order to spend this time on preliminary matters, said Walsh.

"IT WILL NOW be March or April before the trial," said Walsh.

The state is asking the death penalty against Muniz.

The unemployed 20 year-old

laborer was charged with murder and confined to the Williamson County Jail on December 23, after Georgetown police discovered the nude and beaten body of Janice Carol Bickham of Van Vleck beneath a brushpile between the north and south forks of the San Gabriel River.

Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Bill Hill ruled, following an autopsy that same day, that the coed had died of a skull fracture "in association with forcible rape."

MURDER committed in the course of a rape is one of the grounds for asking the death penalty.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

FLORENCE NEWS

BY MRS. J. E. CASKEY

Youngsters from the Florence Church of Christ will host a youth rally at the church Monday night, Jan. 31 from 7-9. The speaker will be Bob Hailey, minister of the Southside Church of Christ in Houston; the song leader will be David Hall, minister of the Briggs Church of Christ. Refreshments will be served. All young people in this area are invited to attend.

Mrs. James Devereaux, Mrs. Emmett Farmer and Miss Jewell Wheeler were shopping in Georgetown the first of the week.

The television news tells of a letter arriving 38 years late in Syracuse, Sicily; the letter had been mailed Feb. 14, 1939 and was posted just 400 yards from its destination.

This is even worse than our postal service. A letter was mailed to me from Route 5, Georgetown, about five miles from Florence; four days later it got here after being in Thorndale and Abilene. No matter how hard I tried, I just could not make the names Thorndale and Abilene look like Florence. Another letter was mailed

Council members present were: Weldon Horton (president), Betty Horton, Nancy Crider, Pauline Naumann (secretary), Joe Ruiz, Hope Ruiz, Gene Raulie, John Garlock (by proxy) and Father Elmer Holtman.

Mass is celebrated at 9:30 Sunday morning, Sunday School at 10:15-11:15. Everyone is invited to come and worship with us.

Toward more precise speedometer readings

Consumers may find that "85 m.p.h." is the top speed listed on their car speedometers, someday, says Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist.

A proposal currently being considered by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration would require car makers to limit the speed indicator to 85 m.p.h. (137 kilometers per hour), she said, noting that the public may indicate their opinion on the proposal before March 14.

"This does not mean cars could not travel faster—they just could not indicate speeds above 85 m.p.h.," the specialist added.

"SEVERAL STUDIES on the effects of the nationwide 55 m.p.h. speed limit have shown that slower, more uniform speeds are primarily responsible for the significant drop in the fatality rate," Ms. Kerbel said.

Existing speedometers which register speeds of 120 m.p.h. — or greater — are using more than half of the dial to indicate illegal and dangerous speeds. The proposed standard will help remove the immature driver's temptation to test the top speed of his vehicle.

"Also, it will make the speedometer dials more precise and easier to read—in the range of speeds normally driven," she said.

If adopted, the proposal will become effective in September, 1979.

Comments are now being sought on the proposed standard. Consumers may write, before March 14, 1977, to: Docket Section (No. 76 06), National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Room 5108, 400 Seventh Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

A mother and family tackle the airwaves

PBS is airing a pilot for a proposed new series, Mother's Little Network on Tuesday, Feb. 8 (9-9:30 p.m., EST). Posing as an up-and-coming family-owned broadcasting company, MLN hits the air with its own brand of video humor. An example of its home-grown humor is found in the review of the show written in Mother's hometown newspaper, "The Bugle," by the local television critic, Ollie Murchison. It was such a stupendously silly review that we've decided to print it in its entirety.

As I see it

by OLLIE MURCHISON

The town was all agog yesterday at the screening of MOTHER'S LITTLE NETWORK, the first in a proposed series of comedy programs for public television. "At last, a good laugh on PTV," it says in the press release, and we agree.

Hold the English

Funnier than Washington Week in Review, shorter than NOVA, gutsier than Evening at Symphony, MOTHER'S LITTLE NETWORK offers something unique. A public television program with no English host! Not unlike the yam, it is born, bred, and rooted in America, with lots of jokes the whole family can laugh at. This reviewer sucked in a lot of fresh air, I can tell you.

Grampa's Heap

It was a great pleasure to see Grampa Floyd on the new show, looking back at us from the tube instead of our bedroom windows! Gramps showed us how to grow a compost heap in your own pocket. Other MOTHER'S LITTLE NETWORK special guests included the popular Osley Siamese Twins from Pensacola, Florida, and Winnebago, Long Island, with their unforgettable rendition of "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off!"

Old Balls, New Tricks
We also enjoyed Mother's many cultural events, including Sing Along with Symphony and a visit to the Hollywood Home for Retired Bouncing Balls, for their touching performance of Row, Row, Row Your Boat. But what really had us in our seats were the sports competitions! This reviewer took particular notes on the Speed Meditation Competition at the Astro Track of the famous Seek 'N Find Spiritual Complex. And the National Pettifogging Finals in Bemworth, Nebraska, with color reporting by Mother herself, gave us all food for thought.

Everything Causes Cancer

Mother's Little Network also featured profoundly topical matter, such as reports on the recent outbreak of feathers in Elizabeth, New Jersey, consumer studies on the reliability of bullet-proof underwear, and science updates on the recent discovery that everything causes cancer in white mice. Undented by the fact that she doesn't yet have any sponsors, Mother went ahead and made her own commercials. I for one was impressed by the Slice-o-Magic Mince-Master ("makes real french fries, just like downtown!") illustrated by host "Fingers" Julianne.

Makes You Wonder

With its many, many features and guest celebrities (hold your hats, folks, Mother says she has some real biggies on the line!) this is a show that will really make you wonder.

For the record, Mother had a lot of help on this one from Mother's Little Regulars Tony Kahn, Arnie Reisman, Dick Bartlett, Ernie Foss, and Nancy Spiller. All of them have written and performed for PBS before in such shows as The Great American Dream Machine, ZOOM, Sesame Street, The Electric Company, and The Life of Leonardo da Vinci. Boston's WGBH-TV brought them all together.

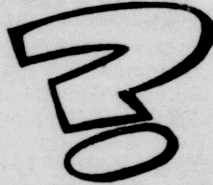

A TV First

TV Star Scene

That devilish daredevil, Evel Knievel, has signed a long term agreement with ABC to perform motorcycle jumps and serve as commentator for stunts by other daredevils. . . . John Rubenstein, composer and actor, as well as son of renowned pianist Arthur Rubenstein, will compose the score for "Emily, Emily," a Hallmark Hall of Fame drama about a retarded youth set for Feb. 7 on NBC. Rubenstein has previously scored the films "The Candidate," "Jeremiah Johnson," "Paddy" and "Kid Blue," as well as a number of TV films. He also plays Meredith Baxter Birney's ex-husband on ABC's Family.

Oscar winner Jose Ferrer has been given the nod for the starring role of the German war profiteer Rhinemann in NBC's Best Seller: The Rhinemann Exchange, also starring Stephen Collins and Lauren Hutton. . . . Neil Diamond is slated to do his first American television special as a headliner. The special, to air Feb. 21 over NBC, was taped live during his triumphant return engagement at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles. . . . Pernell Roberts and Marlyn Mason will guest on an upcoming episode of Most Wanted. Roberts, best remembered as Adam on Bonanza, plays an ex-cop turned extortionist, and Mason plays his victim.

Much of the blood and gore will probably be edited, but Jimmy Caan's "Rollerball" will be featured on Wednesday Night at the Movies Feb. 9. The film, also starring John Houseman, Maud Adams and Ralph Richardson, concerns a brutal game that serves as future man's only outlet for aggression. Fun stuff. . . . The 29th Annual Emmy Awards are set to air Sunday, May 15, in case you'd like to circle it on your calendar a few months early. . . . Karen Valentine, whose talent lies mainly in her marketable case of the cutes, has been signed to do a half-hour comedy pilot by NBC.

William Conrad will serve as off-camera narrator for NBC's Tales of the Unexpected, premiering Feb. 2. The name of the series was changed from Nightmare for some unexplained reason. . . . A Tribute to the American Theatre is bringing out more heavy artillery, with series' producer Laurence Olivier teaming with Joanne Woodward in William Inge's "Come Back, Little Sheba." This is Olivier's second appearance in as many shows. He seems to be acting as his show's own insurance policy. They play a middle-aged midwestern couple forced into marriage and now trapped by it in this searing play.

Princess Grace of Monaco, otherwise known as Grace Kelly, will be the subject of a 90-minute look at her life and career, set for April. The special, to be filmed on location around the U.S. and Europe, is titled "The Story of Princess Grace. . . Once Upon a Time is Now." If that title seems just a bit saccharine, maybe the fact that Budd Schulberg (author of "On the Waterfront") is writing the script will make it more palatable.

Roger Mudd, CBS' Congressional Correspondent since 1961, has been appointed National Affairs correspondent. . . . The "Monte Carlo Circus Festival," presenting the best of 45 great acts in the world of circus, will be presented Feb. 16 over CBS. Initiated by Prince Ranier, a circus devotee, the "festival" is the most prestigious event in the circus world. At the conclusion of four days of performances, a jury of circus critics and aficionados, select the best acts for a gala evening of entertainment.

Norman Lear's decision to halt production on his latest project, A Year at the Top, which was set to premiere on CBS in mid-January, came as a surprise to everyone. He explained his decision: "We asked CBS to allow A Year at the Top to shut down in Philadelphia for repairs and they have graciously granted us permission to do so. After alterations are made, we will be back in production in March for possible airing in the fall on CBS. We felt it would serve the show and the viewing audience better to close out of town and take the proper time to make what we feel are necessary changes." The show starred Mickey Rooney, Robert Alda, Vivian Blaine and Phil Leeds. No one knows what changes are planned.

FRIENDS -- I would like to know if Starsky (Paul Michael Glaser) and Hutch (David Soul) are friends or not. Some papers say they are and some say they aren't. I am very confused, being a very good fan of theirs. I think Starsky is the cutest guy I ever saw, even cuter than the Fonz! Sherri Johnson, Bethel, Penn.

Sorry I cut your letter short, Sherri, but there's only so much room for adulation. As far as Soul's and Glaser's friendship goes, they get along perfectly well on the set and off. However, that doesn't mean they spend many off-hours together. Each lives his own life, so their relationship is perhaps less chummy than that of their characters' on the show.

ELVIS ENTHUSIAST -- I have been a fan of Elvis Presley ever since he started singing. He is my favorite. I would like to know why they don't show any more movies with him in them on TV? I have seen a lot of them but not all. I would also like to know if he's still making movies. D.C., Fresno, Calif.

Presley's pictures are fairly old (as you fans know) and they've ceased to be big attractions on network TV. However, many are still aired by local stations. So, you should check with the local TV stations in your area to see if they plan to show any of his features soon. He has no plans, as of this writing, to make any films soon. Sorry.

CRAZY FOR KRISTY -- I want to know Kristy McNichol's address. Delamere, N.D.

Well, then I'll tell you. Write her at 20th Century Fox, 10201 West Pico Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif.

ALL ABOUT ANGIE -- I really like Angie Dickinson's acting and would like to know her address. I would also like to know a little more about her. Wayne Shelton, Greenville, Tenn.

Are you sure it's just her acting you like? Anyway, here's some background on Angie. She got started after winning a TV beauty contest, and subsequently appeared on the Jimmy Durante Show. After a stint at an acting workshop, she landed her first big role in "Rio Bravo," with John Wayne. She's still married to composer Burt Bacharach, although now how securely remains to be seen, and they have a 9-year-old daughter, Nikki. Angie was born in Kulm, N.D., on Sept. 30, 1936. She's 5 feet 5 and a slight 110 lbs. Write her c/o Police Woman, NBC Burbank Studios, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522.

LUCY ILL? -- Can you tell me if Lucille Ball has been overtaken with some type of illness? W.M. Weeks, Baton Rouge, La.

Some time ago Lucy was rushed to the hospital with what was thought to be a heart attack. It turned out she was simply hyperventilating -- a condition resulting from gulping in too much oxygen, usually associated with tension. Other than that one incident, I know of no illness.

Talent to spare

Soap stars mix suds with stagework

By DON EVANS

The idea started with "The Ladies of Daytime" in Hollywood and now it's becoming a staple of theater across the country.

The actors and actresses who do their five-days-a-week hystionics in TV's soap operas are being utilized in the legitimate theater, rushing away from the Friday afternoon tapings of their daytime dramas in Hollywood or New York to catch the "red eye" to Omaha or Kansas City in time for a run-through before the Saturday matinee performance.

They do matinees and evening performances on Saturdays and Sundays, then take another "red eye" flight back to home base in time for Monday morning rehearsal for the next episode of their soap operas.

It's rigorous and if they did it every week, they'd not last a month. But as a sometime thing, it's rewarding to the performers and it's pulling an audience into theaters whose usual exposure to drama consists of a few hours per day in front of the TV set.

John Lupton of "Days of Our Lives" has been at it since last summer and he's sold on the idea. Lupton is part of a unit working out of the Hollywood-based soap operas. Two other units drawn from the New York-based soaps also hit the road. They all do the same show -- Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite." And all three companies were set up by the same director so the actors can be interchangeable when someone isn't available for a date.

Lupton credits Emily McLaughlin of "General Hospital" and Jeanne Cooper of "The Young and

the Restless" for getting the project started.

"They formed 'The Ladies of Daytime' club in Hollywood. It's made up of all the women who work in soap operas and never see or meet each other except by having lunch together once a month," Lupton explained.

"They talked about all the professional talent in soap operas just sitting around most of the time and decided to do something about it.

"They interested two New York producers in the idea and they put together three talent pools, two in New York and one in Hollywood."

The Hollywood unit, which in addition to Lupton and Misses McLaughlin and Cooper, includes Jaime Lyn Bauer, Tom Hallick and Jim Sikking, took time out from their soap opera chores last summer to rehearse "Plaza Suite" until they had it down pat.

They played a couple of summer dates with it. Since then, they've hit the road as the bookings became available, but only on weekends.

If they're lucky, they get Fridays off from their soap opera chores and can arrive fresh for their legitimate dates. Otherwise, the nighttime "red eye" flights.

"It all makes a lot of sense to us," Lupton said. "It's fun for us to get out and see and hear people.

"And each time we perform, we do what we call our fourth act -- after the show, we sit in the lobby and sign autographs and meet the people.

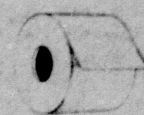

"It's amazing who comes out to see us. In Spokane, we took a survey and found that 60 per cent of the audience had never been to a theater before. They were

A FAMILY FRIEND -- I really like the show Family. My favorite was when Willie's best friend Zeke comes home. Could you tell me Zeke's real name and while you're at it his address would be nice. One more question. Will Zeke appear on the show again? Also, are they going to start reruns? I hope not. P.S. Zeke is so tough!! Patty Yoho, Navarre, Ohio.

The young actor who played Zeke in that episode is Brian Byers. Since he is not under contract at the moment you should write to him care of The Screen Actors Guild, 7750 Sunset

Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90046. There are no plans now to have him return this season. Reruns in television are inevitable, unless a show gets cancelled mid-season. Since the TV season gets shorter every year, you can probably expect reruns to start creeping into the schedule in March.

Quebedeaux is honored posthumously by S.U.

Southwestern University will present its Distinguished Alumnus Award posthumously Tuesday in honor of one of the nation's leaders in pollution control.

The late Dr. Walter Quebedeaux will be honored with the award in ceremonies in the Harris County Pollution Control offices in Pasadena at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

DR. QUEBEDEAUX, who directed that department for the past 23 years, died of a heart attack in November last year. He had graduated from Southwestern in 1935 and was slated to receive the highest award given by the University's Alumni Association — Distinguished Alumnus — in ceremonies scheduled in last January.

Quebedeaux grew up in Georgetown, son of a prominent local family. He held both the B.A. and the B.S. degrees from Southwestern as well as the master's degree in chemistry, a B.S. in chemical engineering and his Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Texas at Austin. In 1968 he earned a law degree from South Texas College of Law in Houston.

Known as an outspoken fighter against pollution, and recognized as one of the nation's foremost authorities on pollution control, Dr. Quebedeaux ramrodded Harris County's pollution control program since 1953. Previously he had served as air and steam pollution director at Champion Paper Co. and as director of industrial health for the Texas State Health Dept.

THE WALTER QUEBEDEAUX SCHOLARSHIP Fund has been established at Southwestern University in his memory.

Homemakers see belly show

The Georgetown Young Homemakers will be meeting for their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, February 1, 7:30 p.m. at the Stonehaven Center.

Dottie Wolgemuth will be presenting the program on belly dancing.

In December the Young Homemakers presented Bernice Biels of Dairy Hill with an honorary membership for all the extra help she has given the club.

Meetings and memberships are open to anyone interested. Contact Joy Bohanan at 863-5752 for more information.

Travel to India via dialogue & slide show

India will be the topic of discussion at the International House on the Southwestern University campus on Sunday, January 30, at 7 p.m.

Faculty members, Bill Swift and Jack Harris, will give a slide presentation and talk on their recent trip to India.

THE TWO MADE the trip during the summer of 1976 participating in a program offered by the Association of Colleges and Universities for International-Intercultural Studies (ACUIIS). They left Georgetown in late June and came back in August, experiencing in the interim much of India's government and culture.

In the Sunday night presentation these men will discuss their impressions of India and what they learned from this very different culture.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

Regardless of the size of a community there is always something for each member to contribute.

Our own hometown is blessed with many talented people including artists of more than one type. Our best known artist, Mel Fowler, is to be congratulated for his one-man show which will be held in the rotunda of the state capitol. Mel has already gained recognition from many all over the world and we can certainly be grateful to him for the attention that has been focused on Liberty Hill because of "The International Sculpture Symposium" and his other accomplishments. We want to salute Mel and say that we are glad he has come our way.

When you come to Liberty Hill Market Day, Saturday, February 5, the sculptures will still be on display and will be an added attraction as you shop at the booths on Liberty Hill Square. There will be, as usual, something there for everyone, including booth No. 13 where you find many types of delectable foods being sold by the Liberty Hill Panther Booster Club. They will have chili dogs and hot dogs (THE BEST IN TOWN) and other goodies, including cold drinks. You can help with the fine work of the Booster Club by contributing something they can sell, or you can contribute your time in helping to operate the booth. Contact Betty Brown at 778-5259, or Mary Ann McLeod at 778-5046, if you have anything to contribute.

Liberty Hill Market Day will be held on Liberty Hill Square from nine until dark, rain or shine, so be sure to make your reservation now for one of the covered booths and participate in this community-wide event. Many of your friends will be there and it is an excellent opportunity for you to meet new friends.

Our Girl Scouts began their annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale on Friday. They will appreciate your helping them by getting some of their very good cookies, adding to their treasury, and aiding in the promotion of their activities. If you don't see any of the Scouts with their cookies, you can call Caroline Cole, the Neighborhood Chairman at 778-5179. Be sure to get some of these good cookies!

The members of the First Baptist Church of our town want to remind you that their church bus will be running Sunday morning for anyone, young or old, to ride to church. If you want to ride be sure to call Wendell McLeod at 778-5046 and you will be picked up, regardless of where you live in and around our community.

day morning for anyone, young or old, to ride to church. If you want to ride be sure to call Wendell McLeod at 778-5046 and you will be picked up, regardless of where you live in and around our community.

The Liberty Hill boys' varsity roundballers engaged the Thrall Tigers in a race for the bucket and probably played one of their better games of the year as they hit 60 percent of their shots from the floor and 67 percent from the charity line, but they still came up short. The final score was 96-82. Thrall's height advantage and their torrid third quarter shooting built up a lead which the Panthers could not overcome. Fouls were again a plague for Liberty Hill as both Robert Stephens and Roy Montemayor went to the bench and missed crucial playing time.

Donnie Johnson, in his career's best performance, pumped in 36 points. He was followed by Robert Stephens with 27 points, Travis Gilmore with 11 points, Eric Weems and Mark Walker with 3 each and Eddie Brewster with 2. Coach Moffitt and the varsity team played in Granger Friday evening — we hope you made the game.

The junior varsity Panthers and Coach Bowie traveled to Thrall last Tuesday evening and lost a district game by 35-22. Steve Loyd was the leading scorer with his 10 points and he was also the leading rebounder with 8. A tight defense was again the big factor in keeping the opponent's score very low but poor shooting cost the Panthers the game.

Next Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. the junior varsity Panthers will host their counterparts from Rogers. They will travel to Lometa to play in the Junior Varsity Tournament on Thursday and Saturday, February 3 and 5.

All of our players and their coaches will appreciate your coming to the game and supporting our teams!

Too many people are indifferent. They prefer to sit back and complain about things that don't get done. We are all citizens of the community and of the world, and each of us has as much responsibility as anyone else for getting things done. When you see something that needs to be done you should take the initiative and enjoy the satisfaction of accomplishment!

KEEP SMILING!

Xi Mu Rho has program on communication

Xi Mu Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the Festival Room of the Wesleyan Home on Tuesday, January 18.

The Ritual of Jewels Degree was conferred upon Linda Werchan, Carolyn Robinson and Margie Johnson. The regular meeting followed the rituals.

President Billie Ragsdale called the meeting to order. The program, "Communications with Music," was presented by Barbara Norment and Helyne Knauth. The special guest speaker was Carol White.

Mrs. White presented an informal and very interesting program.

One item of business for the night was the Valentine Ball at Austin's Driscoll Hotel on Saturday, February 12. The Chapter will be represented at this event by Sweetheart Lottie Fraser. Plans were also finalized to help with the American Cancer Crusade in April.

Merrill Person read the Beta Sigma Phi Review. The meeting was adjourned and the members enjoyed the delicious refreshments served by Carolyn Robinson.

LICENSE STICKERS for motor vehicles go on sale in five locations in Williamson County on February 1.

Most people in the county have already received their three-part card from the highway department, but have had to wait until February 1 to buy their 1977 stickers.

EITHER A 1977 sticker or a new license plate must be displayed on every motor vehicle by April 1.

Most county drivers will purchase just a sticker for their license plate this year. The stickers are red and go in the upper right hand corner of the rear plate already on the car.

ONLY DRIVERS purchasing Texas plates for their vehicle for the first time or buying personalized plates that have already been ordered will receive new plates.

The three-part cards contain the owner's name, address, type of vehicle and fee. They were mailed by the state highway department to vehicle owners across the state.

Car owners can mail their cards, fees and $1 handling fee charge in check or money order to the county tax assessor's office in the courthouse. The sticker or plates will be mailed to the owners starting in February.

COUNTY RESIDENTS wishing to pay their fees in person should take their cards to the tax assessor's office in the courthouse in Georgetown, Round Rock Savings and Loan

in Round Rock, the Taylor courthouse substation in Taylor, Dvorak Motors in Thrall, Hill Ford in Bartlett or Ward Insurance in Granger.

If a car owner has not received a card, he can obtain his 1977 sticker or license by bringing his certificate of title to the car or a 1976 license receipt.

ANYONE who ordered personalized plates before January 1, the deadline, will be able to pick them up at the courthouse.

Leander school board

Work session postponed

The Leander School board tabled a work session at its meeting on Friday, January 21, until school superintendent Joe Ward has time to recover from an illness and catch up on his work.

WARD had been ill for several days and Mrs. Ward had just returned home from the hospital.

The superintendent has been spending extra hours working on both the district's appeal regarding the state's $200 evaluation of the district's wealth and the related suit by the district filed against the Texas Education Agency.

Ward has also been spending many late hours preparing an assessment of the school district's building needs. The work session had been called to discuss priorities on building needs and work on preparing a bond proposal to finance them.

SCHOOL BOARD PRESIDENT Les Wilson said that Ward has been doing a

"super job", but that he needs time to recover and catch up.

The superintendent is overburdened. "And we need to give him more time to do his work," said Wilson.

THE ASSESSMENT of district needs presented by Ward in early January stressed the need for a new sewage treatment plant, a roof for the Leander Elementary school and classrooms to ease overcrowding during the next school year.

Wilson said that a work session would probably be held sometime after the regular February 8 meeting.

AT THE FRIDAY night meeting, trustees accepted an offer by vocational education teacher Kenneth Faubion. Faubion will hire the building trades class to construct a new addition to his home and some renovation. The class, which has been without a project, was scheduled to begin construction this week.

Texas taxes for 1976 brought in $4 billion

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Thursday that the state's major tax funds brought in just over $4 billion in revenue last year, a 16.8 percent increase over calendar year 1975.

Natural gas tax revenues were up a whopping 48.1 percent and sales tax collections rose 18.2 percent, nearly double the national average for the year.

Revenue from the motor vehicle sales tax was $275.9 million, up 31.6 percent over 1975 and franchise tax collections were up 35.5 percent, according to the analysis released by Bullock.

"Overall, 1976 was a pretty good year for the businessman and worker alike in Texas,"

Bullock said. "Consumers had more money and they spent it in record amounts for such luxuries as new automobiles."

In his revenue estimate released last November, Bullock projected that the new Legislature will have an additional $2.9 billion in revenue available for the coming budget period.

This is 34 percent more than was available to the 1975 Legislature for writing the current two-year state budget.

LEADERS FOR THE GEORGETOWN 4-H Horse Club met Tuesday night to make plans for the 1977 Georgetown 4-H Horse program. This year's Horse Club leaders are President Bill Miller, Vice-President Douglas Glover, Secretary-Treasurer Deanna Kimbro and Corresponding Secretary Linda Koprowski.

The first meeting for the Georgetown 4-H Horse Club has been set for Sunday, February 13, at 2 p.m. in the Sheriff's Posse Arena in Georgetown. Anyone interested in participating in the Georgetown 4-H Horse Club is encouraged to bring their horse and attend this meeting. Parents are also encouraged to come and support the efforts of this organization.

AN INTRODUCTORY MEETING for the Williamson County 4-H Entomology Project will be held Tuesday, February 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the county courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse in Georgetown. Mr. Bob Glodt, County Extension Entomologist, will be working with this project group again this year. Anyone interested in this type of 4-H project is encouraged to attend the meeting.

TIME MANAGEMENT — Time management is essential to all busy 4-Hers and 4-H leaders. To be satisfied with the way you use your time, you must control it. Here are some tips:

*Decide which things you feel you must do daily. Write them on a list. Don't plan every hour of every day. Leave some time for the interruptions and unexpected events that will surely occur.

*Put the most important things first on your daily list. Don't feel guilty if you don't get everything done by the end of the day.

*Consider what other demands will require your time.

*Be prepared to give up some activities to achieve your goals.

*Count the things you did get done. Try to see positive accomplishment in even the interruptions.

*Remember to plan for fun and relaxation. If you're not enjoying your time, this may mean you need to take more time to see how you're spending your days and ask yourself if this is what you really want to do with your life.

SING A SONG OF THE NICE WARM AIR, it won't be long before it will no longer be there. These children were seen by SUN reporters playing in San Gabriel Park, during the balmy, spring-like weather Georgetown enjoyed the first part of the week.

Look for good buys

Frigid weather conditions have upset the entire fresh tender-vegetable line and curtailed egg production—with resulting higher prices on some items for grocery consumers.

In spite of that, economy is still possible in several instances, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, says.

Items that grocery stores

previously planned to "special" will now be particularly good values and items harvested before the weather hit their supplies may still be good values.

FRESH CITRUS FRUIT from favorable-weather areas is in good supply and includes oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and tangelos—but their prices may fluctuate due to diminishing supplies from Florida, the specialist reported.

For vegetable economy, choices of fresh items generally are limited to dry onions, white and sweet potatoes, hard-shell squash and rutabagas. But consumers can look for frozen-vegetable features.

At meat counters, pork supplies continue to increase—lowering the price to consumers. Good values appear on Boston butt roasts and quarterloin sliced into chops—along with hams, bacon, roll sausage and frankfurters.

AT BEEF COUNTERS, supplies are adequate and prices are the same as last week or slightly higher. However, greater economy is available on the less-demanded cuts, so consumers might consider rib and shoulder steaks—as well as the popular sirloin and T-bone steaks, ground beef and liver, Mrs. Clyatt advised.

Fryer promotions continue in some stores, despite a general price increase. Also turkey offers good values, she said.

REMEMBERING...

By BILL BROOKS

PAINTED BARN SIGNS

I don't know much about the history of barn signs but I do know there used to be quite a few dotting the country side. While most were simple in both wording and detail, some were very elaborate scenes or murals. Close inspection would reveal that paintings of lesser quality have found their way into museums of fine art.

Advertiser's saw advantages to putting signs on barns instead of regular billboards mainly because the barn was already there but also because the advertiser wouldn't have to worry with the upkeep of the structure. The advantage to the owner of the barn was that he would get a few dollars lease money from the advertiser and a free coat of paint for that side of his barn.

Some advertisers, particularly during hard times, paid the leases with quantities of their product. The farmer was usually very particular as to whether the product itself met with his approval. If a man didn't hold with smoking or dipping he certainly wouldn't permit a tobacco advertisement to be placed on his barn since friends and neighbors naturally would associate the product with the barn's owner.

Some of the brand names we used to see have faded away into history but others are still around, popular as ever. One I remember was the earth with paint covering it, dripping down the sides. "Good to the last drop" and "When it rains, it pours" were slogans well known then and now. There were names like Light Crust, Clabber Girl, Tinsleys, Bull

Durham, Black Draught, Mrs. Tuckers — the list is endless.

Many of the old barn signs have just weathered away completely to bare wood, some have long since collapsed with their barns as age took its toll. Still others were covered over with paint as progress changed our way of life.

Faded, weathered boards that were touched with the brush of some itinerant sign painter artist half a century ago have become collector's items today, adorning the walls of dens, museums and places of business. Why?

Maybe because the signs represent a part of our past that is slipping away. They represent the work of unknown individuals, persons who, possibly without realizing it, touched the lives of countless individuals. Passersby were influenced as to what they wore, ate, drank, drove, smoked and did. We look at the work of the sign painter and remember a little of how life was. Possibly future generations will look at our work the same way and it is my hope they will collect and preserve that part which seems worthwhile.

Eagles to play Lockhart

District 12AAA's No. 3 and 4 scorers will lead the Georgetown Eagles and Lockhart Lions, respectively, into a 7:30 p.m. contest Tuesday in Lockhart.

In the only previous meeting between the two teams, Georgetown upset the Lions, 60-49. But the Eagles' leading scorer, Mark Edwards, who is third in the district with an 18.2 average, was held to only 13 points in that contest, his second-lowest total in the eight district games played through last Tuesday.

Lockhart, while trying to stop Edwards again, will be using its own high-powered offensive weapon, Larry Siemerling, to try to swing the game. Siemerling, fourth in the district, has scored 17.3 points per outing.

The Eagles were 4-4 in district play entering competition Friday, including an 81-69 loss to Taylor Tuesday. In the game before that, an 82-55 pounding of Lampasas, Edwards had a season-high 28 points. It was the second-highest single game outburst of the season in 12AAA behind Larry Whitley of Del

SU men win, women lose

Southwestern University bombed Huston-Tillotson 109-85 Thursday night and was to play St. Edward's Saturday night in Georgetown to pace men's basketball action.

Meanwhile, the Southwestern women ran into hard times as they dropped two games during the week to Navarro Junior College in Corsicana, 68-39, and to St. Mary's in San Antonio, 56-46.

The men's team, playing on the Huston-Tillotson court, exploded for 57 points in the second half to accumulate one of their highest scores in history against the Rams.

Four Pirates hit in double figures with Phillip Sewell leading with 27 points, Tommy Johnson hitting 22, Joe Buchanan 16 and Larry Chase 14. Others adding to the high mark were Steve Doering with eight, Kenny Whitworth six, Jeff Weaver seven, Kenny Dennis five, and Dennis Minks four. Minks also had 12 assists for the game.

Sewell may have also set an individual high in rebounding as he pulled down 19 for the Bucs.

"It was a fun game, and we needed that," said Coach John Edwards, whose team suffered last minute losses to Texas Lutheran and St. Mary's and then a late-game battering at the hands of East Texas Baptist in Marshall in the conference openers.

Clark Jackson led Huston-Tillotson with 22 points.

The Bucs, now 9-8 for the season and 1-3 in Big State Conference play, looked forward to another tough evening against a much-improved St. Edward's team Saturday in Sid W. Richardson Physical Education Center.

The women's team, missing the rebounding and scoring of Tracy Strane (hobbled with a sprained ankle), played St. Mary's close Thursday night in San Antonio before falling behind in the second half.

The Pirate women led 24-23 at the half, but the Rattlerettes pulled out to win by 10 in the second half.

Leading the Bucs despite her injury was Strane with 15 points and Janice Doughty with 12.

Monday the women's team returns to San Antonio to play Trinity. Next home game will be with St. Mary's on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Richardson Center. The Pirate women, playing their first inter-collegiate basketball since 1924, now have six wins and five losses for the season.

SMALLMOUTH BASS which were stocked in Canyon Lake by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in May 1974 are doing well, as shown by the two displayed by biologists Wade Butler and Gary Mooney. The small one weighed 2 lbs. 5 ozs., and the large one 2 lbs. 12 ozs. Smallmouths take lures much in the same manner as largemouths, but generally are found in deeper water along rocky bluffs.

Girls beat Round Rock; face showdown Monday

JAN WAKEFIELD charges around a Round Rock guard.

District 12AAA competition, lead by only four points after one quarter, and Gunter attributed the slow start to nerves.

"We were a little more nervous this time," she said, explaining "you know that one loss will throw you out" of contention for the district championship.

Georgetown is one game behind 4-0 Lampasas, and the Badgers will visit Georgetown for what could be the district championship Monday night at 7:30.

Lampasas won the first meeting between the two teams, 36-35, last week in Lampasas, but Gunter said her team played poorly the first time around.

"Lampasas is going to be a problem," Gunter admitted, "It's one more game we have to win to stay in it."

But can they win it? "I think we can. The team that stays calmest and coolest will win it."

Thursday night, the Eagles had regained their calmness and coolness by the second quarter, and jumped to a 29-14 halftime lead.

They iced the game in the third quarter when the lead moved to 18 points, with Round Rock playing without guard Dee Dee Breux, who fouled out in the third period.

Playing with substitutes much of the final eight minutes, Georgetown still managed to stretch the margin to the final 22 points.

Denise Babicki lead all scorers with 26 points, while Linda Kotrla and Jan Wakefield were also in double figures for Georgetown with 15 and 10, respectively.

Largest smallmouth from Canyon Lake

Largest smallmouth bass taken from Texas reservoirs is the pair of two-pound-plus fish netted in Canyon Lake by Parks and Wildlife Department inland fisheries workers in mid-December.

The fish weighed two pounds 15 ounces and two pounds four ounces.

Wade Butler, P&WD biologist at San Marcos, said the fish were some 2½ years old and probably stocked in Canyon in spring 1974.

Smallmouths have been stocked by the department in seven bodies of water around Texas — Canyon, Stillhouse Hollow, Meredith, Medina Lake, Guadalupe River, MacKenzie and Amistad. The clear, steep-sided reservoirs do not seem to be suitable habitat for native Texas largemouth bass but smallmouths are doing well.

Smallmouth bass are native to the eastern portion of the United States and the farthest west they are found naturally is Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma.

Parks and Wildlife Department plans call for stocking smallmouths in selected reservoirs and streams for five consecutive years. With the exception of Amistad Reservoir, biologists have documented proof of survival in all stocked areas. But fish stocked in the Rio Grande just below the Amistad dam have been observed.

As yet, there is no evidence of reproduction of smallmouths. However, depending on further net samplings in both Canyon and Stillhouse Hollow, 1977 stockings in the two lakes could be suspended for one year to determine if reproduction takes place this spring. Recovery of small bass later in the year would indicate successful reproduction.

Butler said many one- and 1½ pound smallmouth bass are being taken by sport fishermen. Smallmouths are bottom-feeders and anglers must fish deeper than for largemouth bass. Small crayfish fished along the bottom or deep-running lures should be effective this time of year when fishing rocky points in Canyon or Stillhouse Hollow.

Sportsmen go fishing

The Georgetown Sportsman Club held its January point tournament on Lake Calaveras, Sunday Jan. 23.

Although the weather left a lot to be desired, nine teams did fish and everyone had a good time.

Most of the fishing was a hit and miss affair. Those fishing had to contend with very thick fog and a lake filled with weeds which were even thicker.

Some teams reported catching lots of fish, but very few would meet the 12 inch minimum length required by the club.

Most of the fish were caught by buzzing baits very fast over the weeds which were from six inches to 2½ feet under the water.

The baits which produced the best were chartreuse spinner baits, Hot Spots and twist tail minnows.

Ken Stanford and R. L. Smedley won first place with a nine pound catch. Second place went to Paul Bohannon and Butch Floyd with six pounds, 4 ounce and third place went to Allen Petty and Fred Henry with five pounds, 9 ounces. "Big Bass" was won by Ken Stanford with a 3 lb. 6 ounce bass.

The Top Six in the point standings are Ken Stanford (119), Paul Bohannon (77), Fred Henry (51), Allen Petty (38), R. L. Smedley (25) and Butch Floyd (23).

The next Sportsman Club meeting is Thursday, February 3, at 8 p.m. in Stonehaven Center. All members are urged to attend. The club now chooses the lake we will fish for the monthly point tournament at the first meeting of the month.

Persons interested in the club may contact Fred Henry at 863-6074.

THE ONE THAT DID NOT GET AWAY — Ken Stanford displays his catch which helped him and R. L. Smedley win first place in the January Tournament of the Georgetown Sportsman Club.

Opera coming to Georgetown

Texas Opera Theater presents Mozart's comic masterpiece, The Marriage of Figaro, in the Alma Thomas Theatre at Southwestern University on Thursday, February 10, at 8 p.m. as the fifth program in the 1976-77 Artist Series sponsored by the university.

Admission to the Artist Series is by season ticket or single admission for the general public ($2.50 for adults and $1.25 for public school pupils). University personnel and students must present lyceum/activity cards for admission.

Created and sponsored by the Houston Grand Opera, Texas Opera Theater is a resident company of young American artists, administrators and technicians who love to perform on tour. The only professional music theater ensemble in the Southwest, the company's purpose is taking quality opera-in-English "to the people" and has been called "one of Texas' most valuable cultural assets".

OPERA BUFFS AND LAYMEN alike will enjoy Figaro. The characters are delightfully human and the score is straight musical storytelling.

Imagine four amorous couples choreographed in dizzy pursuit, each pressing affections on the other and each wildly jealous of his rival. Add to this fevered madness the most lyrical music in the world and the rustling undertones of social revolution and the result is Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro.

The trick to following and enjoying The Marriage of Figaro is remembering who is

after whom. Susanna and Figaro, personal servants to the Count Almaviva and his countess, are preparing for their wedding festivities. Their nuptial gaiety is complicated by the count's attentions to Susanna, Marcellina's attentions to Figaro, Cherubino's attentions to everybody and the countess's poignant love for no one but the count.

AFTER COUNTLESS rendezvous and secret plotting, the couples are reunited with their proper mates. All tomfoolery is forgiven and the proper balances of love are restored. The opera is frosted by a grand wedding scene — Susanna and Figaro marry while Cherubino and Barbarina, the count and countess and Dr. Bartolo and Marcellina look on. It's no wonder that The Marriage of Figaro is the oldest opera in the permanent repertoire of every lyric stage in the western world.

Burglaries, thefts reported

During the past week Georgetown police investigated three offense reports, making an arrest in one of the cases, while the Williamson County Sheriff's Dept. checked into two more.

Russell Williamson Tulloch, 19, of Belton, pled guilty before Municipal Judge Timothy Maresh Monday to a charge of Class C theft, paid a $32.50 fine, and was released.

TULLOCH was taken into custody by Sheriff's Deputy Jim Wilson and arrested by patrolman Mike Loney Monday after an employee of Paul's Exxon station identified Tulloch as the man who drove away from the station about 7 a.m. that day without paying for a gasoline purchase.

Wilson stopped the Belton man at RM 2243 and U.S. Highway 183. He was brought back to Georgetown, booked, jailed, and later arraigned before Judge Maresh.

A bicycle theft from the Southwestern University campus was reported later in the week. The owner said the bike is a white 10-speed E-Z Rider with a black seat and black handlebars and the initials

J.A.P. on the bar.

ON THURSDAY the theft of a citizens band radio was reported. The complainant reported a Fanon Fare 120-123 channel black and silver CB was stolen from his vehicle sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday while the car was parked at Georgetown High School. Patrolman Loney reported entry to the vehicle had been gained by use of a coat hanger to unlock one of the doors.

The Sheriff's Dept. was also investigating the theft of a $1,000 welder being used at a construction site on FM 971 about three miles east of Granger. Employees of the Allen Construction Company of San Antonio reported the gray, 200-amp Lincoln welder, serial number A730026, was at the site when they left about 5 p.m. Monday but had vanished at 7 a.m. Tuesday. The welder was reported as being mounted on an almost new trailer with black fenders, also missing. Deputy Oscar Dungan was investigating the case.

AN ATTEMPTED house burglary on Rt. 1 in Round Rock was reported Friday. The complainant told Sheriff's deputies she was at home about 11:25 a.m. Friday when she heard a noise at the front door of her home, then more noises at the back door and the sound of glass breaking. Upon investigation, the complainant said, she saw two black subjects both in their 20's running from the back door.

Deputies Jim Boutwell and Leon Kelley reported part of the back door torn and glass broken out of it, but said entry was not gained.

reason. If we had beer and wine, we might have encountered a lot of things other cities have, but we haven't. I mean, the jails are full a lot of times, but they're bringing them from somewhere else. I don't have any idea how it will go. Usually the young people are for it, older people are for it to stay dry. More people have voted against it in the past, but every year it's getting harder to keep it dry."

DARLENE MORROW, 106 E. Sixth St. in Georgetown, self-employed and a Georgetown resident three years: "I'm going to vote to lift the restrictions. I don't think it will do any more harm and the kids will stay close in — they're going to get it somewhere, so it might as well be here. It's not going to keep alcoholics from getting it either. I haven't lived here long enough, so it's hard to tell how it will go."

JAMES BROWN, 1010 Railroad St., carpenter and life-long Georgetown resident: "Might as well vote wet. We would have less violations and if we got it around here you could just carry it home. So many don't abide by the law anyway, they drive drunk, that if we had it here I think we'd get along a little better. Look how many DWI's they get every day. Why not legalize it, so people don't have to drive to get it? They're going to have it anyway, so it just doesn't make any sense. I've lived in wet and dry states and the drys had more beer sales than the wets."

JERRY CASPER, 100 Ridgeoak, Austin businessowner and Georgetown resident since May: "I'm for it to remain dry. If there was no other benefit, it would be a benefit to the children. I think for young people who would be inclined to start a drinking habit, they wouldn't start if they couldn't get it. I think it would make Georgetown a better place to live if we didn't have it."

PAM BARTZ, 1908 Hutto, retired: "I'm for it to stay dry. I think maybe people would drink less if it were dry. If people want to drink, that's their privilege and their decision, but it's not wise to make it too easy to buy. I think maybe if we stay dry, there will be less temptation. Maybe people won't go any distance to purchase it. But I really think this time it will go wet. A lot of new people have moved in who think that way. But it won't change my vote."

MARSHA CRAIG, Southwestern University junior music major from Pearsall: "I'm going to vote for it, because I think Round Rock is kind of far to have to drive just to get something to drink. I don't think it will hurt the town any. Most of the students I know are in favor of it, and I think the majority of Southwestern students will vote for it."

DONNIE DOTSON, Jarrell resident: "I can't vote in the election, but I think they ought to get it. This is the only town in the county that's dry. Jarrell, Round Rock, Florence, and Walburg all have it, why shouldn't Georgetown. If they can't get it here, they're just going to drive to Austin, get drunk, then drive back drunk."

MRS. J. T. GARDNER, 1610 Elm St., 25-year Georgetown resident (Mrs. Gardner phoned her opinion in to us): "I'm 'agin' it tee-totally. I've lived in a lot of towns, and this is the nicest, cleanest, most refined, educated town I've ever lived in and I think it's because we're dry. I could give you a whole bookfull of reasons why we shouldn't have wets. But I wish other people would voice their opinion against it, because I'm nervous. I'm afraid too many people enjoy that rotten stuff and won't vote against it."

Local option for Justice Precinct No. 1

Stay dry or go wet? — next Sat. will tell

THERE IS JUST ONE week left until voters go to the polls to determine if Justice Precinct No. 1 will stay dry or go wet.

The local option election will be on Saturday, February 5.

JUSTICE PRECINCT NO. 1 is much bigger than just Georgetown (see map). It includes three county election precincts: Precinct No. 1, Precinct No. 2 and Precinct No. 29.

Election Precinct No. 1 will vote in the south entrance of the courthouse. Election Precinct No. 2 will vote in the west entrance of the courthouse and Election Precinct No. 29 will vote in the Main Fire Station on Main Street in Georgetown.

ALL VOTING BOXES will be open on Saturday from 7 a.m. till 7 p.m.

County Clerk Dick Cervenka stressed the fact that local option election ballots are different from the regular county wide election ballots. The local option ballots use the scratch method instead of the usual check method.

THIS MEANS that you scratch out the proposition you do NOT wish to vote for. This leaves only the proposition you wish to vote for showing on your ballot. (see sample ballot)

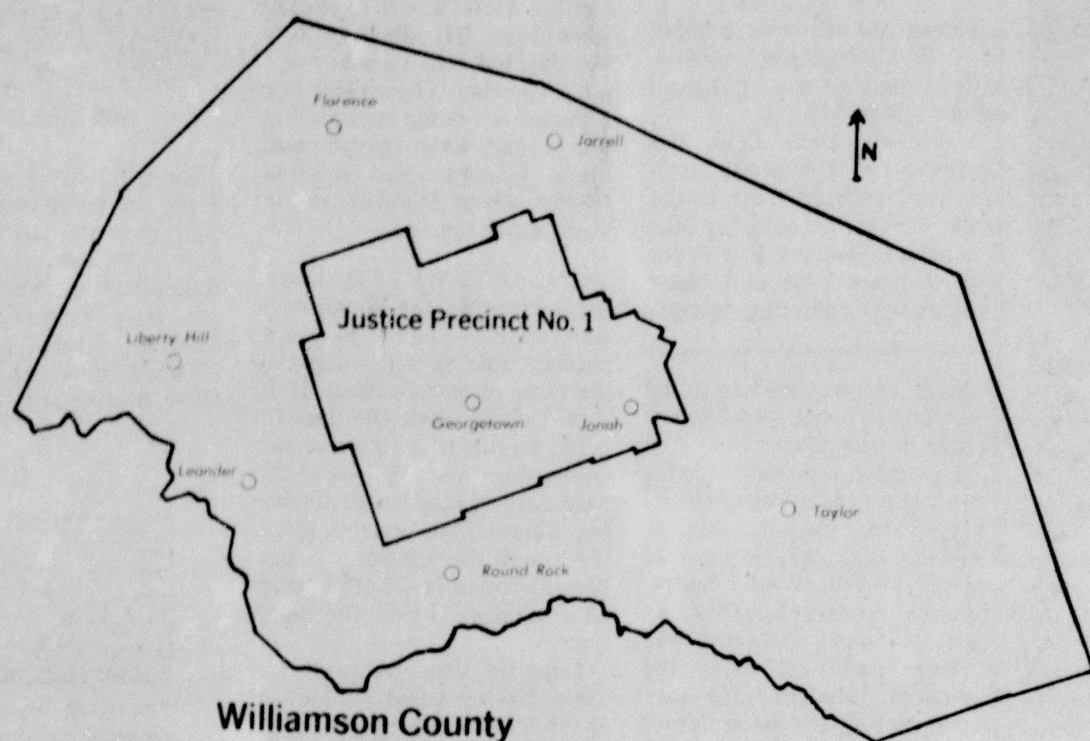

44 persons had cast absentee ballots by press time on Friday.

"That is less than I had expected," said Cervenka. "But, it does not necessarily indicate a small turnout next Saturday," he added. There are usually less people voting absentee when the regular election is held on a Saturday.

In casting their ballots, voters can make no distinction between sales for on premises consumption and sales for off premises consumption.

A VOTE to allow beer and wine sales is a vote to allow sales for both on and off-premises consumption. A vote against beer and wine sales is a vote against sales for both on and off premises consumption.

A bit of balm before the next big blast

The sun was shining, the weather was warm, no sign of rain or freezing temperatures marred the afternoon of outdoor pleasure enjoyed by persons in the Georgetown area early this week. Teresa Carlisle, Ricky Carlisle, Teeny Southworth and Glennon Southworth (left) thought that spring might have decided to come early this year as they enjoyed a sunny Thursday in the park. At San Gabriel Park

Terry Alexander, Ernest Robles, Doug Carter and Skip Lyons (right) took advantage of the break in the cold weather to shoot a few baskets and absorb some of those rarely seen sun rays. Now we can all look back on those warm days at the first of the week as a magical relief from the piercing cold of one of the hardest winters in history. The cold blustery north winds returned to Texas again on Friday

bringing winter back with their chilling howls and destroying all hopes that spring might be just around the corner. Temperatures fell below freezing Friday night and were expected to hover in the 40s on Saturday. No precipitation was expected with this newest front, however. Perhaps the sunshine can keep this bit of winter from seeming quite so dreary.

Babies tend to toe out to some degree when they begin to walk and then gradually bring the front part of the feet in as they progress.

HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

"Paper Of Tacks"

The numberless, now nameless, dry goods store clerks who hand-shaped the "paper of tacks" our ancestors found so useful in mid-19th century America probably never knew they were heroically contributing to this country's development as an industrial giant.

The small, hand-folded paper box packed with carpet tacks and secured by a string was a workable container for carrying home a small supply of fasteners dipped from a wooden crate or barrel at the general store.

Few then realized that the humble paper of tacks would someday help to create sweeping changes in product handling and distribution. From that small folded box came today's unit packaging concept with its multitudes of folding cartons in innumerable styles and sizes.

This article is adapted from a packaging history series created by the St. Regis Paper Company in an effort to rededicate our heritage and renew our pride in our country's achievements.

Scientists scan U.S. food-supply horizon

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia

Americans can remain well-fed and healthy in a starving world only if the United States controls its population, limits immigration, conserves energy and fights soil erosion, food scientists say.

"We would be happier with fewer people better-fed, and that's what we should strive for," said Dr. Garrett Hardin of the University of California, Santa Barbara, a speaker at a recent conference here on food and nutrition sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences.

"You don't solve any of the problems of food shortage by creating more food," he told reporters. "Creating more food merely supports more people."

Dr. David Pimental, professor at Cornell University's College of Agriculture, said in another interview that Americans have "really lived in a gold age" the past three decades, but from now on "it's all downhill."

"We must be concerned about our children, our great-great-grandchildren," Dr. Pimental added. "We must stop increasing our population and conserve the resources that are important to us."

"We must protect the land, stop building highways and housing on first-class land. Our land is more valuable than energy. You can't produce food without land. . . . We must prevent soil erosion. We must conserve energy by going to small cars."

Dr. Hardin opposed suggestions that the United States participate in a world food bank as a means of helping the starving in poor countries.

Beer and wine sales: The vote went 50-50 out on Georgetown's streets

How do average Georgetown area residents feel about legalizing sales of beer and wine here and throughout the rest of Williamson County Justice Precinct One, with the local option election less than a week away?

In an effort to find out, THE SUN conducted ten random interviews late last week, nine on the street and one over the phone. Interestingly enough, we came up with a dead-even split, five for and five against.

Our interviews were conducted on the parking lots of two local shopping centers, with the exception of the one opinion phoned in to us. We talked with a fairly representative cross-section of young and old, men and women, blacks, browns, white, blue collars and white collars. Besides names, addresses, and occupations, we asked our interviewees in most cases: how long they'd lived in Georgetown; whether they intended to vote and how they would vote; why they would vote that way; and how they figured the results would turn out.

Neither our cross-section nor the split result were really planned, they just worked out that way. We don't claim this necessarily reflects the trend of public opinion (this not being a scientific poll), nor would we predict here how the election will turn out.

But we found the answers interesting and we think you will too. They ran as follows.

CARMEN GARAY, 509 Cedar Rd., teacher at the Georgetown Primary School: "I'm going to vote no, against sales. For one thing, I think it's bad for the Georgetown area. If it would bring in only stuff like nice drinking places and places where you could buy beer and wine and take it home, that would be different. But I think with the kinds of places it would bring in, it wouldn't be safe anymore. It would probably be good for the Southwestern students and I expect a lot of them will vote for it. It all depends on what Southwestern does."

JOHNNY TATUM of 2301 Cottonwood, member of the University of Texas French department: "I'm for it,

because people are going to buy beer and wine anyway. Anyone who wants to buy it isn't going to be stopped by a city ordinance, and it's safer to buy it here than to go out and get drunk and then drive home. Besides, Georgetown is losing all that money beer and wine sales would bring in. All the people I know well are for it. But the things I've read in THE SUN and heard elsewhere are against it. I think it will fail."

BEN GUAJARDO, 1510 Timber St., Austin employee and life-long Georgetown resident: "I'm for it to stay as it is, dry. We have managed to keep the city more peaceful that way, and I think that has been the cause for the good standards we have here. A lot of people moved here for that. Please turn to page 12

By Don Scarbrough

Checking figures sent us by Comptroller Bob Bullock I found, somewhat to my surprise, that the combined tax on liquor, ale, wine and beer accounted for slightly more than 2 tenths of 1 percent of our State of Texas tax income.

BIGGEST MONEY-GATHERER was the sales tax, which brought in considerably more than all the taxes on oil production, natural and casinghead gas, gasoline and cigarettes. That's the reason why, when the solons begin looking around for some extra tax revenue, they are tempted simply to add another penny to the sales tax. It's a broad-based scheme, which means that just plain folks who don't have a lobby working for them, pay it.

Both are ill, living in the home and under the care of a relative, Mrs. Ada Mae Warren, Route 2, Box 693A, Austin, Tx., 78704. Mattie fell several weeks ago and broke a hip, which has been pinned. Bob has circulatory problems that necessitated the removal of a toe and continued treatment. Both are over 90.

HUNDREDS OF FORMER Southwestern University ex-students relate to Bob. He and his older brother, Jesse, who died about 20 years ago, worked in Mood Hall nearly half a century and he was there when it opened in 1908. Bob is famed as a fisherman, cook, storyteller and historian. He has an incredible memory and instantly recognizes people he hasn't seen for thirty or forty years, along with stories of their deeds while in college. One of these, "Dutch" O'Neil, came through town a few weeks ago, discovered Bob and Mattie were hospitalized, and gave me $100 to pass along to them. A few days later he mailed me a substantial check as an additional gift. Unfortunately, there haven't been too many of these, so if anyone wants to send them a note and enclose a $1 or $10 bill, it can be put to good use.

Georgetown's Historical Preservation Commission is one of only 11 such bodies in Texas and the only one of its kind among Central Texas cities of comparable population, according to a recently released national survey.

The Directory of Landmark and Historic District Commissions, published last October by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, lists the organization among nearly 500 local governmental commissions nationwide which designate historic properties and review changes to such properties. Also included in the list are historic commissions in Austin, Castroville, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Granbury, Laredo, New Braunfels, and San Antonio.

ESTABLISHED by the Georgetown City Council on Aug. 11, 1975, the commission consists of five members serving three year terms. Present members are Joe Long, Jack Webernick, Albert Evans, Edward Evans, and Donna Scarbrough.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation is the only private, nonprofit organization chartered by Congress with the responsibility to encourage public participation in the preservation of sites, buildings, and objects significant in American history and culture.

The agency compiled its directory during the summer of 1976 as an updated and expanded version of a previous preliminary directory.

GEORGETOWN'S commission is currently applying to have the city's Town Square Historical District (also established in August, 1975) listed in the National Register, a directory of historical sites, structures, objects, and districts.

Operated by the National Park Service's Office of Archaeology and Historical Preservation, the list includes 398 historical areas in Texas.

Among them are the Tinnen House and Southwestern University's Mood Hall in Georgetown, and the Brushy Creek Inn and Captain Merrell House in Round Rock.

The Georgetown Family Planning Clinic will be open this week in its new location, 804 Main Street (next door to the KGTN entrance). Appointments can be made by telephone—863-8053. The clinic will be open 8 to 5, Monday through Friday.

JOE WILLIAMS, Director of the National Register Program for the Texas Historical Commission, said Thursday that the Town Square application had been approved by a state review committee and probably will be in the Register's Washington, D. C. office by early next week.

"We don't anticipate any problem with having the district qualify for the Register," said Williams.

WHY NOISY NEWS SELLS PAPERS

But when a Sacramento tabloid calling itself the "Good News Paper" tried printing only "good news," it went broke within 36 months.

The "good news" most people say they want — they won't buy.

What do newspaper readers really want?

I'VE ATTENDED MANY conferences of young Americans, sometimes thousands of them — in church groups, scholastic groups, 4-H — recommending themselves to improving the status quo. And I've wondered why such gatherings are rarely considered "newsworthy," when a handful of kids with a smoke bomb is.

But that's the way it is.

And we must share the blame.

WITH THE WINDUP of each year, men and women of the news media are polled for their opinions of which stories were the "big" ones.

But this last year the Indianapolis Star also asked its readers the same question.

A comparison of the two surveys is interesting.

Here are the 1976 stories, rated for their importance, by news editors:

- 1—The presidential campaign and election.
- 2—Revelations of illegal acts by the CIA and FBI.
- 3—Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai die; China changes.
- 4—Upheaval in southern Africa.
- 5—Earthquakes in China, Italy, Guatemala and so forth.
- 6—Chowchilla, Calif., school bus kidnapping.
- 7—Washington sex scandals.
- 8—Legionnaires disease.
- 9—Civil War in Lebanon.
- 10—U. S. soldiers killed in Korean DMZ.

THOSE ARE THE 10 STORIES newspaper, radio and TV news editors considered most significant. Only three of those 10 stories could be considered sordid, seductive or morbid.

Now here are the 10 stories which newspaper readers considered most important:

- 1—The presidential campaign and election.
- 2—The Patty Hearst trial.
- 3—Washington sex scandals.
- 4—Legionnaires disease.
- 5—Bicentennial celebrations.
- 6—Swine flu (the threat that never developed).
- 7—The school bus kidnapping.
- 8—The death of Howard Hughes.
- 9—The Karen Quinlan decision.
- 10—The unmanned landing on Mars.

Not one of these reader preference stories concerns foreign or international news.

But seven of the 10 could be called "sensational," either libidinous or morbid.

So the inescapable conclusion is that you'd rather hear about one gunshot than about a thousand prayers.

And so you will.

Just a few weeks ago the Austin American-Statesman had a featured story on bondsman Frank Smith, telling of his money and his power.

THIS WEEK THE TALE was quite different. Bondsman Smith is under indictment of a state grand jury and is nowhere to be found. He said he was going south to do some fishing several days ago. Where he is no one seems to know, or, at least they didn't when this was written Thursday.

One more conviction for this wealthy man, recently labeled powerful, will mean that he is an habitual criminal, a charge that carries a mandatory life sentence.

His plight underscores the Christian concept that the guy who relies on and relates to the temporal things of life often winds up with a mouthful of ashes.

Carter weighs negative income tax

By Richard L. Strout

Washington

Some 14 million to 16 million American families whose income is too low to pay income taxes may receive rebates from the government at approximately $50 per "exemption" in a striking plan to stimulate the economy and reduce poverty that is now being formulated by the Carter administration.

The Carter rebate program, to be revealed this week, would cost an estimated $15 billion.

The idea of stimulating the economy by tax cuts or government spending goes back to British economist Keynes, but the problem is to reach the low-income groups who are below the line of income tax payments. They could be reached by government works in a revival of the New Deal's WPA (Works Progress Administration) used by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1930s. But that takes time to organize.

What seems to be under way is the application of a form of the negative income tax (NIT) advocated by Nobel Prize-winner Milton Friedman of Chicago University.

Its main thrust is simple: Everybody files income tax returns; those with incomes above a certain level pay taxes to the government; those below a certain level get payments from the government.

Radical though it seems, former President Ford endorsed the theory in January, 1975, in his State of the Union message. Nonetheless some economists, regard Professor Friedman as far too conservative. He would abolish most, or all, of present welfare payments and substitute cash government payments letting recipients decide how they would spend their money and replacing the huge welfare supervisory structure in part by the relative simplicity of income tax forms.

Handling the proposal now is Brookings Institution tax expert Barry Bosworth along with Charles L. Schultze, just installed chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. The proposal, if accepted, will be part of the larger $30 billion, two-year Carter economic stimulation package. If carried through and approved by Congress it would involve direct cash Treasury checks of $50 being sent to 1976 taxpayers in the form of rebates — perhaps totaling more than $10 billion.

The tentative new feature would be that those who have filled out income tax forms showing they are below the tax-paying ceiling would themselves get checks back from the government, although they paid nothing in. It is estimated that something over 15 million American families (or individuals) fall below the non-income tax paying poverty line. For a fam-

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I brought my family to live in Georgetown almost fifteen years ago — one of the main reasons being that it was a good, clean town without bars or taverns.

We had lived for four years in a community where alcohol was easily accessible and was a factor in much of the Emergency room work from minor violence to major accidents. I am still convinced that most major wrecks and violence have alcohol involved.

My family is happy in Georgetown, and I feel that many newcomers here have chosen Georgetown because it is a good town. I'd like to keep Georgetown As Good As It Is so I'll vote against the sale of wine and beer on 5 Feb. 1977.

Sincerely,

James L. Shepherd, M.D.
1408 Laurel St.
Georgetown, Tx.

Dear Editor:

We appreciate the opportunity that you are giving to express our feelings concerning the sale of beer and wine for on or off premise consumption in Georgetown and surrounding area.

We came to Georgetown 20 years ago, have raised our five children here, and have appreciated so much the clean,

ity of four living below the poverty line, the government's return would be $200.

Here is what former President Ford said about the idea in 1975:

"Those with the very lowest incomes, who can least afford higher costs, must also be compensated. I propose a payment of $30 to every person 18 years of age and older in that category . . ."

Former President Richard Nixon had a variant of the negative income tax in his unsuccessful Family Assistance Program which proposed a universal federal income for the working poor.

Government checks to people for doing nothing? It is anathema to many. Milton Friedman, an adviser to Sen. Barry Goldwater in the 1964 election, publicized his proposal from 1965 to 1968, before he was president of the American Economic Association.

Should NIT recipients get benefits in cash rather than kind — like food stamps? Yes, says Professor Friedman; let them build self-reliance by running their own lives and cut down, to some degree, the welfare bureaucracy. He argues that social workers spend nine-tenths of their time as paymasters and policemen snooping on welfare recipients. He rejects a means test for NIT recipients. He wants no more of a means test than that of the ordinary income tax return now applicable to all. And some Carter aides apparently agree.

friendly, safe town for family living. We think the area should stay "as good as it is" and that will not be possible with sale of alcoholic beverages here. We feel that persons who want that sort of thing should go to an area where it exists, not come to our town and mess it up with beer joints, bars and taverns.

Someone has mentioned that we need commercial growth—that kind we don't need. We urge every registered voter in Precinct 1 to scratch the "For the sale, etc." off the ballot on February 5. Let's vote so strongly against it that it will discourage promoting an election every few years.

Yours for a better Georgetown,

Recently our nation organized itself to meet the threat of swine flu. After months of preparation a program was launched and inoculation began. Then it came to a stop — why? Because three people died after taking the shots.

Last year over 700 deaths were caused on Texas streets and highways because of alcohol. Over 200,000 died on the nation's highways in alcohol-related accidents. And still the sale goes on.

Someone sold the people that alcohol is a great tax boon. Somehow the concern for life which was so rightfully exercised in the swine flu program just is not present in a discussion of alcohol. Three deaths stopped a program whose aim was to stop 700 deaths fail to stop an evil which produces no good at all!

Do you need any other reason for opposing the sale and use of alcohol.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — This summer may see Gov. Dolph Briscoe with a hand-picked majority of appointees on another major State agency—the State Board of Insurance.

LONG-TIME MEMBER Durwood Manford's term expires Monday, giving the governor one opening—and Chairman Joe Christie (whose term runs to Jan. 31, 1981) has indicated he has plans to move on.

But there aren't any indications that Briscoe feels any overwhelming need to replace Manford—if indeed Manford is to be replaced—any time soon.

Briscoe's handling of appointments (admittedly like that of some of his predecessors) tends to be somewhat erratic: those of the University of Texas and Texas A&M regents moved out quickly; others (like that of Banking Board member Jim Lindsey of College Station) have been allowed to hang for a couple of years.

Christie has said publicly he opposes reappointment of Manford, who has been a stumbling block to some of Christie's projects at the board.

Recently, the irritations between Manford and the third member of the board, Ned Price, reached the flash point—and Manford and Price engaged in a brief bout of fisticuffs.

But that doesn't mean that Manford is on the way out.

IN ADDITION TO BEING acceptable to the insurance industry (whose members are known to contribute to gubernatorial campaigns), Manford and Briscoe are colleagues of sorts—having served together in the House (when Manford was Speaker).

Still, there's plenty of speculation as to who may be named to the board—with at least one large Austin public relations firm testing the water on behalf of potential nominees.

And there seems to be plenty of potential nominees.

Briscoe's appointment secretary, George Lowrance, confirms that there is "fairly large" group being considered, apparently including Manford—although Lowrance doesn't indicate just who may be on the governor's list.

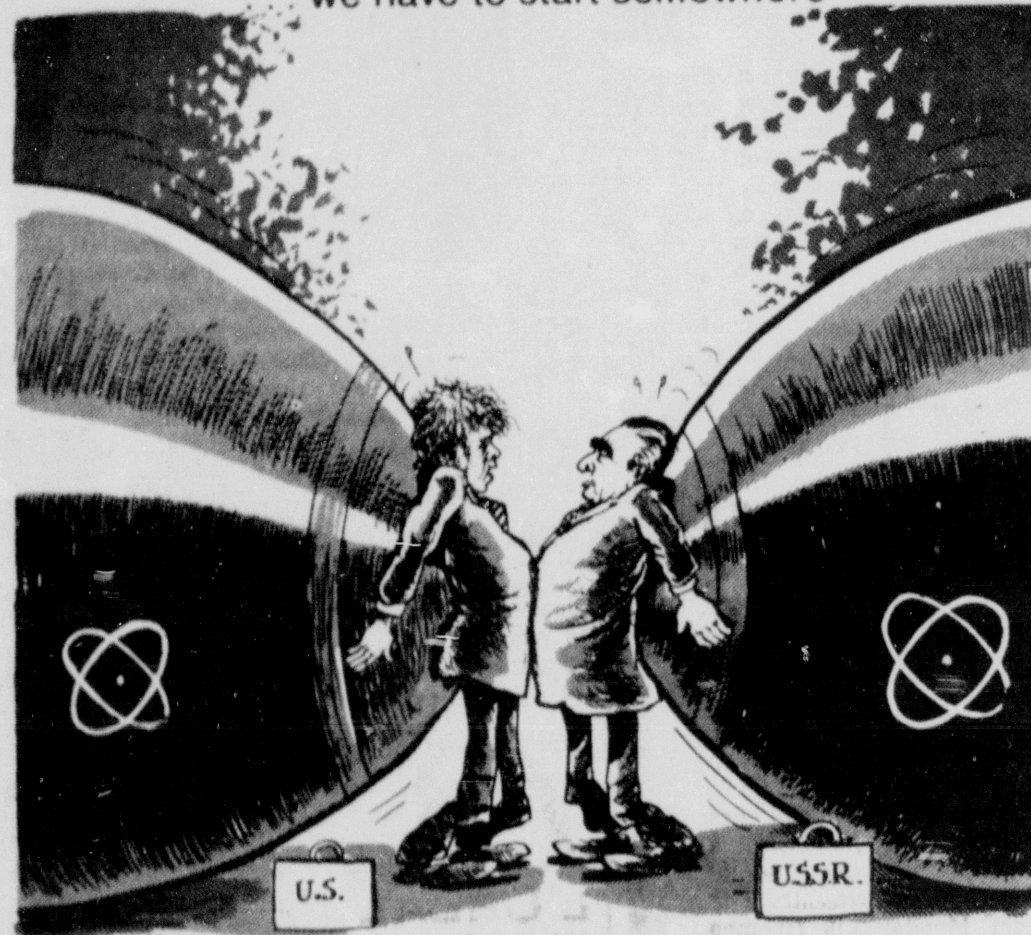

BUT AMONG THOSE who have been named are former State Rep. John Poerner of Hondo, now heading up Briscoe's Office of Educational Resources; former State Rep. Don Cavness of Austin, a long-time sponsor of insurance legislation in the House, and now a lobbyist for groups including the Independent Bankers Association of Texas; former State Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock, an active sponsor of insurance legislation and popular with his former colleagues (who would have to vote to confirm him); Dallas County Commissioner David Pickett; Houston attorney Harrison Vickers; and Bryan businessman Tom Lukens.

Right now, such bets as there are indicate no one expects Briscoe to make any move until after the Legislature leaves — which will be the time he'll announce his political plans (eliminating what little doubt there is that he'll run again), and the time that Christie has said that he'll announce his plans.

BESIDES ELIMINATING any possibility of a fight over the nomination — or nominations — in the Senate, that time could also give Briscoe an additional reason for retaining Manford if he wishes to: namely, that if Christie leaves as expected, it would be well to have two rather than one experienced board member on hand to run the Board of Insurance.

But Briscoe also has Christie's example to point to, if he wants to argue that a capable man, with the backing of qualified assistants and staff, can pick up the necessary knowledge to quickly handle the insurance aspects of the job.

Howard Hughes' Will Resurfaces

WASHINGTON — Five years ago we reported that reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes was a thin, emaciated wreck of a man, neglected by his aides and isolated from the world around him. Our description of Hughes noted that his hair was long, straggly and snarled. His fingernails and toenails, we said, were long and curling. At the time, the story was denied.

After flying to Mexico to investigate the billionaire's last days there, we amassed enough evidence to convince Mexican authorities to help us with our investigation. Their report confirmed our early descriptions of Hughes and his life as a virtual prisoner.

In a massive Acapulco penthouse, Hughes was consigned to a small, back room with boarded windows while his aides occupied large, luxurious seaside digs. Mexican police have charged that the aides neglected Hughes horribly. The billionaire was allowed to dangerously dehydrate and his once tall body shriveled to a bare 90 pounds. He had open bedsores, his teeth were badly decayed and of course, his hair and fingernails were exactly as we described them years ago.

Mexican police told us they would have charged Hughes' aides with criminal neglect if they had remained in the country. At our suggestion, the police raided the Acapulco penthouse and confiscated thousands of documents. We then arranged with former Treasury Secy. William Simon to have U.S. Internal Revenue Service agents photograph the documents in Mexico City. One of them is of special interest. It is a memo about the Hughes will.

Undated and unsigned, the memo was found in a folder labeled September, 1975. There is nothing unusual about the memo being unsigned, because many internal memos were habitually unsigned by Hughes. But this particular memo indicates that the billionaire's executive secretary, Nadine Henley, was holding a will in her custody.

Nadine Henley regarded the will in her possession to be Hughes' true will. But the memo notes that another handwritten will also existed. The memo suggests, therefore, that Hughes straightened out his wills before he died.

Coffee Curse: We have learned that repeated tests on animals show that the caffeine found in coffee may cause birth defects. The researchers have concluded, therefore, that pregnant women definitely should not drink coffee.

Though it's the responsibility of the Food and Drug Administration to protect the public from unsafe beverages, the agency so far has refused to order warning labels on coffee. There was a showdown on the subject recently within the FDA itself.

Michael Jacobson, director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, vainly pleaded his case for warning labels to apparently deaf official ears. While placidly downing one cup of coffee after another, Howard Roberts, the top FDA official at the meeting, flatly turned down the consumer advocate's plea. Roberts insisted that there isn't enough evidence to prove that coffee is a serious health threat.

Swine Flu Fiasco: We've discovered that one critical reason for the swine flu follies dates back to a feud between former President Richard Nixon and the last U.S. Surgeon General, Jesse Steinfeld. As the nation's top medical officer, Steinfeld regularly stood up to industry pressure on public health hazards like phosphates, cyclamates and pesticides. But Nixon wanted to give industry cronies a break from Steinfeld's unyielding positions. He couldn't fire the Surgeon General so he simply froze Steinfeld out of policy-making decisions. Predictably, Steinfeld resigned his position in disgust. Major health policy decisions were then taken over completely by the White House and former President Gerald Ford continued the White House control.

It was a White House decision to begin the swine flu inoculations. But the cure has turned out to be more dangerous than the disease. When hospitals began reporting strange cases of paralysis associated with the inoculations, the program was abruptly suspended by embarrassed White House officials on Dec. 16, 1976.

Our sources say that the Surgeon General, conscientious as he is about public health hazards, would never have gone ahead with the shots without a more careful study of the side effects. These sources say that the immunization program was an ill-conceived political gimmick designed to counter the swine flu panic gripping the nation. It was not, say our sources, a legitimate case of preventive medicine.

Happily, the White House is now moving out of the health business. The new Secy. of Health, Education and Welfare, Joseph Califano, is quietly looking for a Surgeon General to fill the four-year vacancy.

Citizen Lazarus: Seven of last year's congressional elections are still contested. But the most bitter of all is the battle to succeed Louisiana's crusty old F. Edward Hebert.

Charges and countercharges have led to lawsuits and criminal investigations. Now, federal investigators have confirmed our findings on the matter. In that election, at least three dead people died their civic duty by voting.

Get ready for spaghetti, Tues.

Spaghetti will provide a cure for your hunger and a purge of Westside's debt for its latest safety project.

The Georgetown P.T.A. is planning a spaghetti supper at Westside Elementary School from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 1.

WESTSIDE HAS recently installed a new paved area where parents may come to pick up and drop off their children. The area includes a protective enclosure in which the students stand and several auto exit ways to aid the flow of traffic. Funds raised from the supper will go to help pay for this project.

Before the new pick-up area was built parents had to pick up their children out on busy Scenic Drive. There is no marked school zone at Westside, no

cross walks and no area designated for student loading. Small children darting out in the street and cars stopping to load presented a safety hazard. The new area is much safer and much easier on both parents and students.

In addition to the spaghetti, the P.T.A. plans to have a dessert booth in the gymnasium, where the Westside choir will be entertaining throughout the evening. Door prizes will be given away.

Tickets for the spaghetti feast are $1.75 for adults and $1.00 for children. Large family groups, which include two adults, will receive a special rate of $8.00 for 7 to 10 people. Advance tickets may be purchased at Draeger Motors and tickets will also be available at the door.

DR. WATTS

Services held for Dr. Watts

Memorial services for longtime Southwestern University professor the Reverend Harvey D. Watts were scheduled to be held Saturday at 4 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Georgetown. Interment will be in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery.

The Rev. Watts died Thursday afternoon in the Georgetown Hospital.

In lieu of flowers, the family has asked that memorial gifts be made to the Nan Philpott P. Ellis Scholarship Fund at Southwestern University.

A graduate of Southwestern, Rev. Watts was a member of the faculty at the University for 30 years where he was associate professor of religion and philosophy and where he also taught Greek for many years.

He originated and taught a unique course in "New Thought Movements" at Southwestern. And he was the longtime tennis coach at the University.

Rev. Watts also served as chaplain of the Methodist Children's Home in Waco, and was a scoutmaster in Georgetown for many years.

Before returning to Southwestern as a member of the faculty, the Rev. Watts earned a master's degree and a bachelor of divinity degree at Perkins School of Theology and also did considerable graduate work at the University of Chicago.

He was born on April 3, 1908, in Greenville, Texas.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian, of Georgetown; by two sons, Dr. David Watts of San Francisco and Bill Watts of Houston; by a sister, Mrs. Walter Ray of Talpa; and by five grandchildren, Elizabeth, Jennifer, Rebecca, David, Christopher, and Andrew Watts.

Pedro Cruz Muniz, on advice from his attorney Ruben Sandoval of San Antonio, told District Judge Bill Lott that he would waive his right to a speedy trial in order to give Sandoval more time to prepare several pre-trial motions and present them to the court before a trial date is set.

MUNIZ, who is under indictment for capital murder in the death of a 19-year-old Southwestern University coed in Georgetown last December, appeared in District Court on docket call last Thursday morning.

JUDGE LOTT scheduled three dates in February and March for pre-trial motions in the Muniz case.

Muniz will appear in District Court in Georgetown again on Friday February 4, at 9:30 a.m. Sandoval is expected to present a discovery motion to the court at that time. The motion will request that the state appoint and fund a private investigator to search for additional evidence in the case.

On February 11, Sandoval is scheduled to appear in court to present a motion for a change of venue. Judge Lott will hear the request to move the trial location to another district court, and decide if the change of venue will be granted.

SANDOVAL had not yet filed a copy of the motion for a change of venue with District Attorney Ed Walsh on Thursday, but Walsh expects to receive it at least five days before the scheduled hearing.

Muniz and Sandoval will return to the district courtroom on March 11 for a full pre-trial hearing. At this time all other pre-trial motions from Sandoval are scheduled to be heard.

In cases where the defendant is in jail, we try to set the trial as quickly as possible, said Walsh.

Mr. Muniz has waived his constitutional right to a speedy trial in order to spend this time on preliminary matters, said Walsh.

"IT WILL NOW be March or April before the trial," said Walsh.

The state is asking the death penalty against Muniz.

The unemployed 20 year-old

laborer was charged with murder and confined to the Williamson County Jail on December 23, after Georgetown police discovered the nude and beaten body of Janice Carol Bickham of Van Vleck beneath a brushpile between the north and south forks of the San Gabriel River.

Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Bill Hill ruled, following an autopsy that same day, that the coed had died of a skull fracture "in association with forcible rape."

MURDER committed in the course of a rape is one of the grounds for asking the death penalty.

FLORENCE NEWS

BY MRS. J. E. CASKEY

Youngsters from the Florence Church of Christ will host a youth rally at the church Monday night, Jan. 31 from 7-9. The speaker will be Bob Hailey, minister of the Southside Church of Christ in Houston; the song leader will be David Hall, minister of the Briggs Church of Christ. Refreshments will be served. All young people in this area are invited to attend.

Mrs. James Devereaux, Mrs. Emmett Parmer and Miss Jewell Wheeler were shopping in Georgetown the first of the week.

Earl Smith, Jr., who attends school in San Marcos, spent the weekend with Mrs. Ronald Priest.

Mrs. Montie Martin of Austin was in Florence on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Tomlinson of Killeen were at their mobile home near Florence Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blount of Killeen visited Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gower Sunday.

Albert Buntun of Burnet was the weekend guest of Miss Onita Yoes and the Austin Conlees.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Love of Austin spent Sunday with the J. E. Caskeys.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller were in Lampasas to visit L. H. Miller the last of the week.

The television news tells of a letter arriving 38 years late in Syracuse, Sicily; the letter had been mailed Feb. 14, 1939 and was posted just 400 yards from its destination.

This is even worse than our postal service. A letter was mailed to me from Route 5, Georgetown, about five miles from Florence; four days later it got here after being in Thorndale and Abilene. No matter how hard I tried, I just could not make the names Thorndale and Abilene look like Florence.

Another letter was mailed

Leander church council meets

Father Elmer Holtman of St. Margaret Mary's Catholic church in Leander called a council meeting Jan. 23.

The business was first to review the church budget for 1976. Everyone was pleased with the report.

Plans were made to repair damage done by vandals to the restrooms and doors. We discussed how to receive and install the new church pews which will be arriving any day now. We voted to have a chain-link fence built around the church grounds. The contractors will begin work immediately.

Council members present were: Weldon Horton (president), Betty Horton, Nancy Crider, Pauline Naumann (secretary), Joe Ruiz, Hope Ruiz, Gene Raulie, John Garlock (by proxy) and Father Elmer Holtman.

Mass is celebrated at 9:30 Sunday morning, Sunday School at 10:15-11:15. Everyone is invited to come and worship with us.

Free tax service offered

The Georgetown Neighborhood Center at 800 Timber St. will continue to offer free income tax services for low-income residents in and around the Georgetown community during the next four consecutive Saturdays.

The first of the five sessions was slated from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Jan. 29.

The service will also be offered during the same hours on Feb. 5, 12, 19, and 26.

Garden Club to learn about organic gardens

The Georgetown Garden Club will have its February 3 meeting at the home of Mrs. W. K. McClain, 1204 East University.

The business meeting will begin at 1 p.m. and will include a report on the Arbor Day program in San Gabriel Park.

The program will be on organic gardening and will be conducted by Mrs. Charles Huntley of the Austin Organic Gardening Club.

Anyone interested is invited to attend, especially those who might be interested in becoming a member of the local Garden Club.

Toward more precise speedometer readings

Consumers may find that "85 m.p.h." is the top speed listed on their car speedometers, someday, says Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist.

A proposal currently being considered by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration would require car makers to limit the speed indicator to 85 m.p.h. (137 kilometers per hour), she said, noting that the public may indicate their opinion on the proposal before March 14.

"This does not mean cars could not travel faster—they just could not indicate speeds above 85 m.p.h.," the specialist added.

"SEVERAL STUDIES on the effects of the nationwide 55 m.p.h. speed limit have shown that slower, more uniform speeds are primarily responsible for the significant drop in the fatality rate," Ms. Kerbel said.

"Existing speedometers which register speeds of 120 m.p.h. — or greater — are using more than half of the dial to indicate illegal and dangerous speeds. The proposed standard will help remove the immature driver's temptation to test the top speed of his vehicle.

"Also, it will make the speedometer dials more precise and easier to read—in the range of speeds normally driven," she said.

If adopted, the proposal will become effective in September, 1979.

Comments are now being sought on the proposed standard. Consumers may write, before March 14, 1977, to: Docket Section (No. 76 06), National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Room 5108, 400 Seventh Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

A mother and family tackle the airwaves

PBS is airing a pilot for a proposed new series, Mother's Little Network on Tuesday, Feb. 8 (9-9:30 p.m., EST). Posing as an up-and-coming family-owned broadcasting company, MLN hits the air with its own brand of video humor. An example of its home-grown humor is found in the review of the show written in Mother's hometown newspaper, "The Bugle," by the local television critic, Ollie Murchison. It was such a stupendously silly review that we've decided to print it in its entirety.

As I see it

by OLLIE MURCHISON

The town was all agog yesterday at the screening of MOTHER'S LITTLE NETWORK, the first in a proposed series of comedy programs for public television. "At last, a good laugh on PTV," it says in the press release, and we agree.

Hold the English

Funnier than Washington Week in Review, shorter than NOVA, gutsier than Evening at Symphony, MOTHER'S LITTLE NETWORK offers something unique. A public television program with no English host! Not unlike the yam, it is born, bred, and rooted in America, with lots of jokes the whole family can laugh at. This reviewer sucked in a lot of fresh air, I can tell you.

Grampa's Heap

It was a great pleasure to see Grampa Floyd on the new show, looking back at us from the tube instead of our bedroom windows! Gramps showed us how to grow a compost heap in your own pocket. Other MOTHER'S LITTLE NETWORK special guests included the popular Osley Siamese Twins from Pensacola, Florida, and Winnebago, Long Island, with their unforgettable rendition of "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off!"

Old Balls, New Tricks

We also enjoyed Mother's many cultural events, including Sing Along with Symphony and a visit to the Hollywood Home for Retired Bouncing Balls, for their touching performance of Row, Row, Row Your Boat. But what really had us in our seats were the sports competitions! This reviewer took particular notes on the Speed Meditation Competition at the Astro Track of the famous Seek 'N Find Spiritual Complex. And the National Pettifogging Finals in Bemworth, Nebraska, with color reporting by Mother herself, gave us all food for thought.

Everything Causes Cancer

Mother's Little Network also featured profoundly topical matter, such as reports on the recent outbreak of feathers in Elizabeth, New Jersey, consumer studies on the reliability of bullet-proof underwear, and science updates on the recent discovery that everything causes cancer in white mice. Undented by the fact that she doesn't yet have any sponsors, Mother went ahead and made her own commercials. I for one was impressed by the Slice-o-Magic Mince-Master ("makes real french fries, just like downtown!") illustrated by host "Fingers" Julianne.

Makes You Wonder

With its many, many features and guest celebrities (hold your hats, folks, Mother says she has some real biggies on the line!) this is a show that will really make you wonder.

For the record, Mother had a lot of help on this one from Mother's Little Regulars Tony Kahn, Arnie Reisman, Dick Bartlett, Ernie Foss, and Nancy Spiller. All of them have written and performed for PBS before in such shows as The Great American Dream Machine, ZOOM, Sesame Street, The Electric Company, and The Life of Leonardo da Vinci. Boston's WGBH-TV brought them all together.

A TV First

But it wasn't until the naked couple appeared with the chocolate sauce and the French Poo- (cont. p. 86)

FRIENDS -- I would like to know if Starsky (Paul Michael Glaser) and Hutch (David Soul) are friends or not. Some papers say they are and some say they aren't. I am very confused, being a very good fan of theirs. I think Starsky is the cutest guy I ever saw, even cuter than the Fonz! Sherri Johnson, Bethel, Penn.

Sorry I cut your letter short, Sherri, but there's only so much room for adulation. As far as Soul's and Glaser's friendship goes, they get along perfectly well on the set and off. However, that doesn't mean they spend many off-hours together. Each lives his own life, so their relationship is perhaps less chummy than that of their characters' on the show.

ELVIS ENTHUSIAST -- I have been a fan of Elvis Presley ever since he started singing. He is my favorite. I would like to know why they don't show any more movies with him in them on TV? I have seen a lot of them but not all. I would also like to know if

he's still making movies. D.C., Fresno, Calif.

Presley's pictures are fairly old (as you fans know) and they've ceased to be big attractions on network TV. However, many are still aired by local stations. So, you should check with the local TV stations in your area to see if they plan to show any of his features soon. He has no plans, as of this writing, to make any films soon. Sorry.

CRAZY FOR KRISTY -- I want to know Kristy McNichol's address. Delamere, N.D.

Well, then I'll tell you. Write her at 20th Century Fox, 10201 West Pico Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif.

ALL ABOUT ANGIE -- I really like Angie Dickinson's acting and would like to know her address. I would also like to know a little more about her. Wayne Shelton, Greenville, Tenn.

Are you sure it's just her acting you like? Anyway, here's some background on Angie. She got started after winning a TV beauty contest, and subsequently appeared on the Jimmy Durante Show. After a stint at an acting workshop, she landed her first big role in "Rio Bravo," with John Wayne. She's still married to composer Burt Bacharach, although now how securely remains to be seen, and they have a 9-year-old daughter, Nikki. Angie was born in Kulm, N.D., on Sept. 30, 1936. She's 5 feet 5 and a slight 110 lbs. Write her c/o Police Woman, NBC Burbank Studios, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522.

LUCY ILL? -- Can you tell me if Lucille Ball has been overtaken with some type of illness? W.M. Weeks, Baton Rouge, La.

Some time ago Lucy was rushed to the hospital with what was thought to be a heart attack. It turned out she was simply hyperventilating -- a condition resulting from gulping in too much oxygen, usually associated with tension. Other than that one incident, I know of no illness.

TV Star Scene

That devilish daredevil, Evel Knievel, has signed a long term agreement with ABC to perform motorcycle jumps and serve as commentator for stunts by other daredevils . . . John Rubenstein, composer and actor, as well as son of renowned pianist Arthur Rubenstein, will compose the score for "Emily, Emily," a Hallmark Hall of Fame drama about a retarded youth set for Feb. 7 on NBC. Rubenstein has previously scored the films "The Candidate," "Jeremiah Johnson," "Paddy" and "Kid Blue," as well as a number of TV films. He also plays Meredith Baxter Birney's ex-husband on ABC's Family.

Oscar winner Jose Ferrer has been given the nod for the starring role of the German war profiteer Rhinemann in NBC's Best Seller: The Rhinemann Exchange, also starring Stephen Collins and Lauren Hutton . . . Neil Diamond is slated to do his first American television special as a headliner. The special, to air Feb. 21 over NBC, was taped live during his triumphant return engagement at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles . . . Pernell Roberts and Marlyn Mason will guest on an upcoming episode of Most Wanted. Roberts, best remembered as Adam on Bonanza, plays an ex-cop turned extortionist, and Mason plays his victim.

Much of the blood and gore will probably be edited, but Jimmy Caan's "Rollerball" will be featured on Wednesday Night at the Movies Feb. 9. The film, also starring John Houseman, Maud Adams and Ralph Richardson, concerns a brutal game that serves as future man's only outlet for aggression. Fun stuff . . . The 29th Annual Emmy Awards are set to air Sunday, May 15, in case you'd like to circle it on your calendar a few months early . . . Karen Valentine, whose talent lies mainly in her marketable case of the cutes, has been signed to do a half-hour comedy pilot by NBC.

William Conrad will serve as off-camera narrator for NBC's Tales of the Unexpected, premiering Feb. 2. The name of the series was changed from Nightmare for some unexplained reason . . . A Tribute to the American Theatre is bringing out more heavy artillery, with series' producer Laurence Olivier teaming with Joanne Woodward in William Inge's "Come Back, Little Sheba." This is Olivier's second appearance in as many shows. He seems to be acting as his show's own insurance policy. They play a middle-aged midwestern couple forced into marriage and now trapped by it in this searing play.

Princess Grace of Monaco, otherwise known as Grace Kelly, will be the subject of a 90-minute look at her life and career, set for April. The special, to be filmed on location around the U.S. and Europe, is titled "The Story of Princess Grace . . . Once Upon a Time is Now." If that title seems just a bit saccharine, maybe the fact that Budd Schulberg (author of "On the Waterfront") is writing the script will make it more palatable.

Roger Mudd, CBS' Congressional Correspondent since 1961, has been appointed National Affairs correspondent . . . The "Monte Carlo Circus Festival," presenting the best of 45 great acts in the world of circus, will be presented Feb. 16 over CBS. Initiated by Prince Ranier, a circus devotee, the "festival" is the most prestigious event in the circus world. At the conclusion of four days of performances, a jury of circus critics and aficionados, select the best acts for a gala evening of entertainment.

Norman Lear's decision to halt production on his latest project, A Year at the Top, which was set to premiere on CBS in mid-January, came as a surprise to everyone. He explained his decision: "We asked CBS to allow A Year at the Top to shut down in Philadelphia for repairs and they have graciously granted us permission to do so. After alterations are made, we will be back in production in March for possible airing in the fall on CBS. We felt it would serve the show and the viewing audience better to close out of town and take the proper time to make what we feel are necessary changes." The show starred Mickey Rooney, Robert Alda, Vivian Blaine and Phil Leeds. No one knows what changes are planned.

Talent to spare

By DON EVANS

The idea started with "The Ladies of Daytime" in Hollywood and now it's becoming a staple of theater across the country.

The actors and actresses who do their five-days-a-week hystrionics in TV's soap operas are being utilized in the legitimate theater, rushing away from the Friday afternoon tapings of their daytime dramas in Hollywood or New York to catch the "red eye" to Omaha or Kansas City in time for a run-through before the Saturday matinee performance.

They do matinees and evening performances on Saturdays and Sundays, then take another "red eye" flight back to home base in time for Monday morning rehearsal for the next episode of their soap operas.

It's rigorous and if they did it every week, they'd not last a month. But as a sometime thing, it's rewarding to the performers and it's pulling an audience into theaters whose usual exposure to drama consists of a few hours per day in front of the TV set.

John Lupton of "Days of Our Lives" has been at it since last summer and he's sold on the idea. Lupton is part of a unit working out of the Hollywood-based soap operas. Two other units drawn from the New York-based soaps also hit the road. They all do the same show -- Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite." And all three companies were set up by the same director so the actors can be interchangeable when someone isn't available for a date.

Lupton credits Emily McLaughlin of "General Hospital" and Jeanne Cooper of "The Young and

the Restless" for getting the project started.

"They formed 'The Ladies of Daytime' club in Hollywood. It's made up of all the women who work in soap operas and never see or meet each other except by having lunch together once a month," Lupton explained.

"They talked about all the professional talent in soap operas just sitting around most of the time and decided to do something about it.

"They interested two New York producers in the idea and they put together three talent pools, two in New York and one in Hollywood."

The Hollywood unit, which in addition to Lupton and Misses McLaughlin and Cooper, includes Jaime Lyn Bauer, Tom Hallick and Jim Sikking, took time out from their soap opera chores last summer to rehearse "Plaza Suite" until they had it down pat.

They played a couple of summer dates with it. Since then, they've hit the road as the bookings became available, but only on weekends.

If they're lucky, they get Fridays off from their soap opera chores and can arrive fresh for their legitimate dates. Otherwise, the nighttime "red eye" flights.

"It all makes a lot of sense to us," Lupton said. "It's fun for us to get out and see and hear people.

"And each time we perform, we do what we call our fourth act -- after the show, we sit in the lobby and sign autographs and meet the people.

"It's amazing who comes out to see us. In Spokane, we took a survey and found that 60 per cent of the audience had never been to a theater before. They were

A FAMILY FRIEND -- I really like the show Family. My favorite was when Willie's best friend Zeke comes home. Could you tell me Zeke's real name and while you're at it his address would be nice. One more question. Will Zeke appear on the show again? Also, are they going to start reruns? I hope not. P.S. Zeke is so tough!! Patty Yoho, Navarre, Ohio.

The young actor who played Zeke in that episode is Brian Byers. Since he is not under contract at the moment you should write to him care of The Screen Actors Guild, 7750 Sunset

Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90046. There are no plans now to have him return this season. Reruns in television are inevitable, unless a show gets cancelled mid-season. Since the TV season gets shorter every year, you can probably expect reruns to start creeping into the schedule in March.

Quebedeaux is honored posthumously by S.U.

Southwestern University will present its Distinguished Alumnus Award posthumously Tuesday in honor of one of the nation's leaders in pollution control.

The late Dr. Walter Quebedeaux will be honored with the award in ceremonies in the Harris County Pollution Control offices in Pasadena at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

DR. QUEBEDEAUX, who directed that department for the past 23 years, died of a heart attack in November last year. He had graduated from Southwestern in 1935 and was slated to receive the highest award given by the University's Alumni Association — Distinguished Alumnus — in ceremonies scheduled in last January.

Quebedeaux grew up in Georgetown, son of a prominent local family. He held both the B.A. and the B.S. degrees from Southwestern as well as the master's degree in chemistry, a B.S. in chemical engineering and his Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Texas at Austin. In 1968 he earned a law degree from South Texas College of Law in Houston.

Known as an outspoken fighter against pollution, and recognized as one of the nation's foremost authorities on pollution control, Dr. Quebedeaux ramrodded Harris County's pollution control program since 1953. Previously he had served as air and steam pollution director at Champion Paper Co. and as director of industrial health for the Texas State Health Dept.

THE WALTER QUEBEDEAUX SCHOLARSHIP Fund has been established at Southwestern University in his memory.

Homemakers see belly show

The Georgetown Young Homemakers will be meeting for their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, February 1, 7:30 p.m. at the Stonehaven Center.

Dottie Wolgemuth will be presenting the program on belly dancing.

In December the Young Homemakers presented Bernice Biels of Dairy Hill with a honorary membership for all the extra help she has given the club.

Meetings and memberships are open to anyone interested. Contact Joy Bohanan at 863-5752 for more information.

Travel to India via dialogue & slide show

India will be the topic of discussion at the International House on the Southwestern University campus on Sunday, January 30, at 7 p.m.

Faculty members, Bill Swift and Jack Harris, will give a slide presentation and talk on their recent trip to India.

THE TWO MADE the trip during the summer of 1976 participating in a program offered by the Association of Colleges and Universities for International-Intercultural Studies (ACUIIS). They left Georgetown in late June and came back in August, experiencing in the interim much of India's government and culture.

In the Sunday night presentation these men will discuss their impressions of India and what they learned from this very different culture.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

Regardless of the size of a community there is always something for each member to contribute.

Our own hometown is blessed with many talented people including artists of more than one type. Our best known artist, Mel Fowler, is to be congratulated for his one-man show which will be held in the rotunda of the state capitol. Mel has already gained recognition from many all over the world and we can certainly be grateful to him for the attention that has been focused on Liberty Hill because of "The International Sculpture Symposium" and his other accomplishments. We want to salute Mel and say that we are glad he has come our way.

When you come to Liberty Hill Market Day, Saturday, February 5, the sculptures will still be on display and will be an added attraction as you shop at the booths on Liberty Hill Square. There will be, as usual, something there for everyone, including booth No. 13 where you find many types of delectable foods being sold by the Liberty Hill Panther Booster Club. They will have chili dogs and hot dogs (THE BEST IN TOWN) and other goodies, including cold drinks. You can help with the fine work of the Booster Club by contributing something they can sell, or you can contribute your time in helping to operate the booth. Contact Betty Brown at 778-5259, or Mary Ann McLeod at 778-5046, if you have anything to contribute.

Liberty Hill Market Day will be held on Liberty Hill Square from nine until dark, rain or shine, so be sure to make your reservation now for one of the covered booths and participate in this community-wide event. Many of your friends will be there and it is an excellent opportunity for you to meet new friends.

Our Girl Scouts began their annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale on Friday. They will appreciate your helping them by getting some of their very good cookies, adding to their treasury, and aiding in the promotion of their activities. If you don't see any of the Scouts with their cookies, you can call Caroline Cole, the Neighborhood Chairman at 778-5179. Be sure to get some of these good cookies!

The members of the First Baptist Church of our town want to remind you that their church bus will be running Sunday morning for anyone, young or old, to ride to church. If you want to ride be sure to call Wendell McLeod at 778-5046 and you will be picked up, regardless of where you live in and around our community.

The Liberty Hill boys' varsity roundballers engaged the Thrall Tigers in a race for the bucket and probably played one of their better games of the year as they hit 60 percent of their shots from the floor and 67 percent from the charity line, but they still came up short. The final score was 96-82. Thrall's height advantage and their torrid third quarter shooting built up a lead which the Panthers could not overcome. Fouls were again a plague for Liberty Hill as both Robert Stephens and Roy Montemayor went to the bench and missed crucial playing time.

Donnie Johnson, in his career's best performance, pumped in 36 points. He was followed by Robert Stephens with 27 points, Travis Gilmore with 11 points, Eric Weems and Mark Walker with 3 each and Eddie Brewster with 2. Coach Moffitt and the varsity team played in Granger Friday evening — we hope you made the game.

The junior varsity Panthers and Coach Bowie traveled to Thrall last Tuesday evening and lost a district game by 35-22. Steve Loyd was the leading scorer with his 10 points and he was also the leading rebounder with 8. A tight defense was again the big factor in keeping the opponent's score very low but poor shooting cost the Panthers the game.

Next Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. the junior varsity Panthers will host their counterparts from Rogers. They will travel to Lometa to play in the Junior Varsity Tournament on Thursday and Saturday, February 3 and 5.

All of our players and their coaches will appreciate your coming to the game and supporting our teams!

Too many people are indifferent. They prefer to sit back and complain about things that don't get done. We are all citizens of the community and of the world, and each of us has as much responsibility as anyone else for getting things done. When you see something that needs to be done you should take the initiative and enjoy the satisfaction of accomplishment!

KEEP SMILING!

Xi Mu Rho has program on communication

Xi Mu Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the Festival Room of the Wesleyan Home on Tuesday, January 18.

The Ritual of Jewels Degree was conferred upon Linda Werchan, Carolyn Robinson and Margie Johnson.

The regular meeting followed the rituals.

President Billie Ragsdale called the meeting to order. The program, "Communications with Music," was presented by Barbara Norment and Helyne Knauth. The special guest speaker was Carol White.

Mrs. White presented an informal and very interesting program.

One item of business for the night was the Valentine Ball at Austin's Driscoll Hotel on Saturday, February 12. The Chapter will be represented at this event by Sweetheart Lottie Fraser. Plans were also finalized to help with the American Cancer Crusade in April.

Merrill Person read the Beta Sigma Phi Review.

The meeting was adjourned and the members enjoyed the delicious refreshments served by Carolyn Robinson.

License sticker sales begin February 1

LICENSE STICKERS for motor vehicles go on sale in five locations in Williamson County on February 1.

Most people in the county have already received their three-part card from the highway department, but have had to wait until February 1 to buy their 1977 stickers.

EITHER A 1977 sticker or a new license plate must be displayed on every motor vehicle by April 1.

Most county drivers will purchase just a sticker for their license plate this year. The stickers are red and go in the upper right hand corner of the rear plate already on the car.

ONLY DRIVERS purchasing Texas plates for their vehicle for the first time or buying personalized plates that have already been ordered will receive new plates.

The three-part cards contain the owner's name, address, type of vehicle and fee. They were mailed by the state highway department to vehicle owners across the state.

Car owners can mail their cards, fees and $1 handling fee charge in check or money order to the county tax assessor's office in the courthouse. The sticker or plates will be mailed to the owners starting in February.

COUNTY RESIDENTS wishing to pay their fees in person should take their cards to the tax assessor's office in the courthouse in Georgetown, Round Rock Savings and Loan

in Round Rock, the Taylor courthouse substation in Taylor, Dvorak Motors in Thrall, Hill Ford in Bartlett or Ward Insurance in Granger.

If a car owner has not received a card, he can obtain his 1977 sticker or license by bringing his certificate of title to the car or a 1976 license receipt.

ANYONE who ordered personalized plates before January 1, the deadline, will be able to pick them up at the courthouse.

Leander school board

Work session postponed

The Leander School board tabled a work session at its meeting on Friday, January 21, until school superintendent Joe Ward has time to recover from an illness and catch up on his work.

WARD had been ill for several days and Mrs. Ward had just returned home from the hospital.

The superintendent has been spending extra hours working on both the district's appeal regarding the state's $200 evaluation of the district's wealth and the related suit by the district filed against the Texas Education Agency.

Ward has also been spending many late hours preparing an assessment of the school district's building needs. The work session had been called to discuss priorities on building needs and work on preparing a bond proposal to finance them.

"super job", but that he needs time to recover and catch up.

The superintendent is overburdened. "And we need to give him more time to do his work," said Wilson.

THE ASSESSMENT of district needs presented by Ward in early January stressed the need for a new sewage treatment plant, a roof for the Leander Elementary school and classrooms to ease overcrowding during the next school year.

Wilson said that a work session would probably be held sometime after the regular February 8 meeting.

AT THE FRIDAY night meeting, trustees accepted an offer by vocational education teacher Kenneth Faubion. Faubion will hire the building trades class to construct a new addition to his home and some renovation. The class, which has been without a project, was scheduled to begin construction this week.

Texas taxes for 1976 brought in $4 billion

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Thursday that the state's major tax funds brought in just over $4 billion in revenue last year, a 16.8 percent increase over calendar year 1975.

Natural gas tax revenues were up a whopping 48.1 percent and sales tax collections rose 18.2 percent, nearly double the national average for the year.

Revenue from the motor vehicle sales tax was $275.9 million, up 31.6 percent over 1975 and franchise tax collections were up 35.5 percent, according to the analysis released by Bullock.

"Overall, 1976 was a pretty good year for the businessman and worker alike in Texas,"

Bullock said. "Consumers had more money and they spent it in record amounts for such luxuries as new automobiles."

In his revenue estimate released last November, Bullock projected that the new Legislature will have an additional $2.9 billion in revenue available for the coming budget period.

This is 34 percent more than was available to the 1975 Legislature for writing the current two-year state budget.

THAT'S SOME COOKIE — Gary Seaman and Gin Dodson talk to Juanita Taylor on their morning radio program on KGTV, "Party Line," as they sample some of the delights to be sold in the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale. The two radio personalities discussed the purpose of the fund raising project with Mrs. Taylor while they tasted each type of cookie and cracker to be on sale January 28 to February 21. Be watching for the Girl Scouts to knock on your door.

LEADERS FOR THE GEORGETOWN 4-H Horse Club met Tuesday night to make plans for the 1977 Georgetown 4-H Horse program. This year's Horse Club leaders are President Bill Miller, Vice-President Douglas Glover, Secretary-Treasurer Deanna Kimbro and Corresponding Secretary Linda Koprowski.

The first meeting for the Georgetown 4-H Horse Club has been set for Sunday, February 13, at 2 p.m. in the Sheriff's Posse Arena in Georgetown. Anyone interested in participating in the Georgetown 4-H Horse Club is encouraged to bring their horse and attend this meeting. Parents are also encouraged to come and support the efforts of this organization.

AN INTRODUCTORY MEETING for the Williamson County 4-H Entomology Project will be held Tuesday, February 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the county courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse in Georgetown. Mr. Bob Glodt, County Extension Entomologist, will be working with this project group again this year. Anyone interested in this type of 4-H project is encouraged to attend the meeting.

TIME MANAGEMENT — Time management is essential to all busy 4-Hers and 4-H leaders. To be satisfied with the way you use your time, you must control it. Here are some tips:

*Decide which things you feel you must do daily. Write them on a list. Don't plan every hour of every day. Leave some time for the interruptions and unexpected events that will surely occur.

*Be prepared to give up some activities to achieve your goals.

*Count the things you did get done. Try to see positive accomplishment in even the interruptions.

*Remember to plan for fun and relaxation. If you're not enjoying your time, this may mean you need to take more time to see how you're spending your days and ask yourself if this is what you really want to do with your life.

Frigid weather conditions have upset the entire fresh tender-vegetable line and curtailed egg production—with resulting higher prices on some items for grocery consumers.

In spite of that, economy is still possible in several instances. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, says,

Items that grocery stores

previously planned to "special" will now be particularly good values and items harvested before the weather hit their supplies may still be good values.

FRESH CITRUS FRUIT from favorable-weather areas is in good supply and includes oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and tangelos—but their prices may fluctuate due to diminishing supplies from Florida, the specialist reported.

At meat counters, pork supplies continue to increase — lowering the price to consumers. Good values appear on Boston butt roasts and quarterloin sliced into chops—along with hams, bacon, roll sausage and frankfurters.

AT BEEF COUNTERS, supplies are adequate and prices are the same as last week or slightly higher. However, greater economy is available on the less-demanded cuts, so consumers might consider rib and shoulder steaks—as well as the popular sirloin and T-bone steaks, ground beef and liver, Mrs. Clyatt advised.

Fryer promotions continue in some stores, despite a general price increase. Also turkey offers good values, she said.

REMEMBERING...

By BILL BROOKS

I don't know much about the history of barn signs but I do know there used to be quite a few dotting the country side. While most were simple in both wording and detail, some were very elaborate scenes or murals. Close inspection would reveal that paintings of lesser quality have found their way into museums of fine art.

Advertiser's saw advantages to putting signs on barns instead of regular billboards mainly because the barn was already there but also because the advertiser wouldn't have to worry with the upkeep of the structure. The advantage to the owner of the barn was that he would get a few dollars lease money from the advertiser and a free coat of paint for that side of his barn.

Some advertisers, particularly during hard times, paid the leases with quantities of their product. The farmer was usually very particular as to whether the product itself met with his approval. If a man didn't hold with smoking or dipping he certainly wouldn't permit a tobacco advertisement to be placed on his barn since friends and neighbors naturally would associate the product with the barn's owner.

Some of the brand names we used to see have faded away into history but others are still around, popular as ever. One I remember was the earth with paint covering it, dripping down the sides. "Good to the last drop" and "When it rains, it pours" were slogans well known then and now. There were names like Light Crust, Clabber Girl, Tinsleys, Bull

Durham, Black Draught, Mrs. Tuckers — the list is endless.

Many of the old barn signs have just weathered away completely to bare wood, some have long since collapsed with their barns as age took its toll. Still others were covered over with paint as progress changed our way of life.

Maybe because the signs represent a part of our past that is slipping away. They represent the work of unknown individuals, persons who, possibly without realizing it, touched the lives of countless individuals. Passersby were influenced as to what they wore, ate, drank, drove, smoked and did. We look at the work of the sign painter and remember a little of how life was. Possibly future generations will look at our work the same way and it is my hope they will collect and preserve that part which seems worthwhile.

TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALL GAME — Catcher Ronny Maynard and Pitcher Ricky Gravens, members of the Southwestern University Baseball Team turned out Thursday afternoon with the rest of their teammates to practice for their season opener. The Pirates will play their first game in Georgetown at 1:30 p.m. on February 18. Their opponent in the double-header will be Jarvis Christian from Hawkins, Texas.

Eagles to play Lockhart

District 12AAA's No. 3 and 4 scorers will lead the Georgetown Eagles and Lockhart Lions, respectively, into a 7:30 p.m. contest Tuesday in Lockhart.

In the only previous meeting between the two teams, Georgetown upset the Lions, 60-49. But the Eagles' leading scorer, Mark Edwards, who is third in the district with an 18.2 average, was held to only 13 points in that contest, his second-lowest total in the eight district games played through last Tuesday.

Lockhart, while trying to stop Edwards again, will be using its own high-powered offensive weapon, Larry Siemerling, to try to swing the game. Siemerling, fourth in the district, has scored 17.3 points per outing.

The Eagles were 4-4 in district play entering competition Friday, including an 81-69 loss to Taylor Tuesday. In the game before that, an 82-55 pounding of Lampasas, Edwards had a season-high 28 points. It was the second-highest single game outburst of the season in 12AAA behind Larry Whitley of Del

Although the weather left a lot to be desired, nine teams did fish and everyone had a good time.

Most of the fishing was a hit and miss affair. Those fishing had to contend with very thick fog and a lake filled with weeds which were even thicker.

Some teams reported catching lots of fish, but very few would meet the 12 inch minimum length required by the club.

Most of the fish were caught by buzzing baits very fast over the weeds which were from six inches to 2½ feet under the water.

The baits which produced the best were chartreuse spinner baits, Hot Spots and twist tail minnows.

Ken Stanford and R. L. Smedley won first place with a nine pound catch. Second place went to Paul Bohannon and Butch Floyd with six pounds, 4 ounce and third place went to Allen Petty and Fred Henry with five pounds, 9 ounces. "Big Bass" was won by Ken Stanford with a 3 lb. 6 ounce bass.

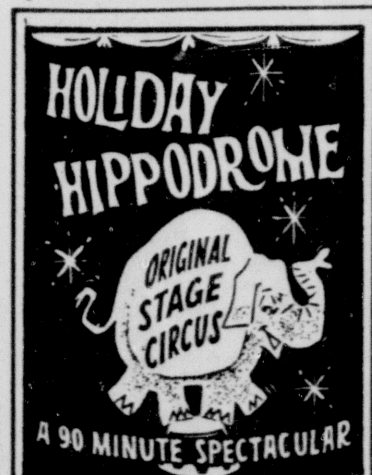

The Top Six in the point standings are Ken Stanford (119), Paul Bohannon (77), Fred Henry (51), Allen Petty (38), R. L. Smedley (25) and Butch Floyd (23).

The next Sportsman Club meeting is Thursday, February 3, at 8 p.m. in Stonehaven Center. All members are urged to attend. The club now chooses the lake we will fish for the monthly point tournament at the first meeting of the month.

Persons interested in the club may contact Fred Henry at 863-6074.

THE ONE THAT DID NOT GET AWAY — Ken Stanford displays his catch which helped him and R. L. Smedley win first place in the January Tournament of the Georgetown Sportsman Club.

Girls beat Round Rock; face showdown Monday

Georgetown Coach Natalie Gunter said it was nerves. Round Rock said it was too short — about 30 minutes too short, to be exact.

Whatever it was, it let the Round Rock girl's team take a brief 2-0 lead Thursday night before the Eagle girls breezed into control of the game and passed by the Dragons, 58-36.

JAN WAKEFIELD charges around a Round Rock guard.

District 12AAA competition, lead by only four points after one quarter, and Gunter attributed the slow start to nerves.

"We were a little more nervous this time," she said, explaining "you know that one loss will throw you out" of contention for the district championship.

Georgetown is one game behind 4-0 Lampasas, and the Badgers will visit Georgetown for what could be the district championship Monday night at 7:30.

Lampasas won the first meeting between the two teams, 36-35, last week in Lampasas, but Gunter said her team played poorly the first time around.

GEORGETOWN (58)
Kotrla 15, Babicki 26, Wakefield 10, Turner 2, Hobarisch 1, Anderson 8. Guards — Kennedy, Saterfield, McCalla, Shell, Baldwin.
Round Rock 9 5 10 12 — 36
Team fouls — Round Rock 31, Georgetown 26. Fouled out — Breaux, Zimmerman.

But can they win it?
"I think we can. The team that stays calmest and coolest will win it."

Thursday night, the Eagles had regained their calmness and coolness by the second quarter, and jumped to a 29-14 halftime lead.

They iced the game in the third quarter when the lead moved to 18 points, with Round Rock playing without guard Dee Dee Breaux, who fouled out in the third period.

Playing with substitutes much of the final eight minutes, Georgetown still managed to stretch the margin to the final 22 points.

Denise Babicki lead all scorers with 26 points, while Linda Kotrla and Jan Wakefield were also in double figures for Georgetown with 15 and 10, respectively.

Largest smallmouth from Canyon Lake

Largest smallmouth bass taken from Texas reservoirs is the pair of two-pound-plus fish netted in Canyon Lake by Parks and Wildlife Department inland fisheries workers in mid-December.

The fish weighed two pounds 15 ounces and two pounds four ounces.

Wade Butler, P&WD biologist at San Marcos, said the fish were some 2½ years old and probably stocked in Canyon in spring 1974.

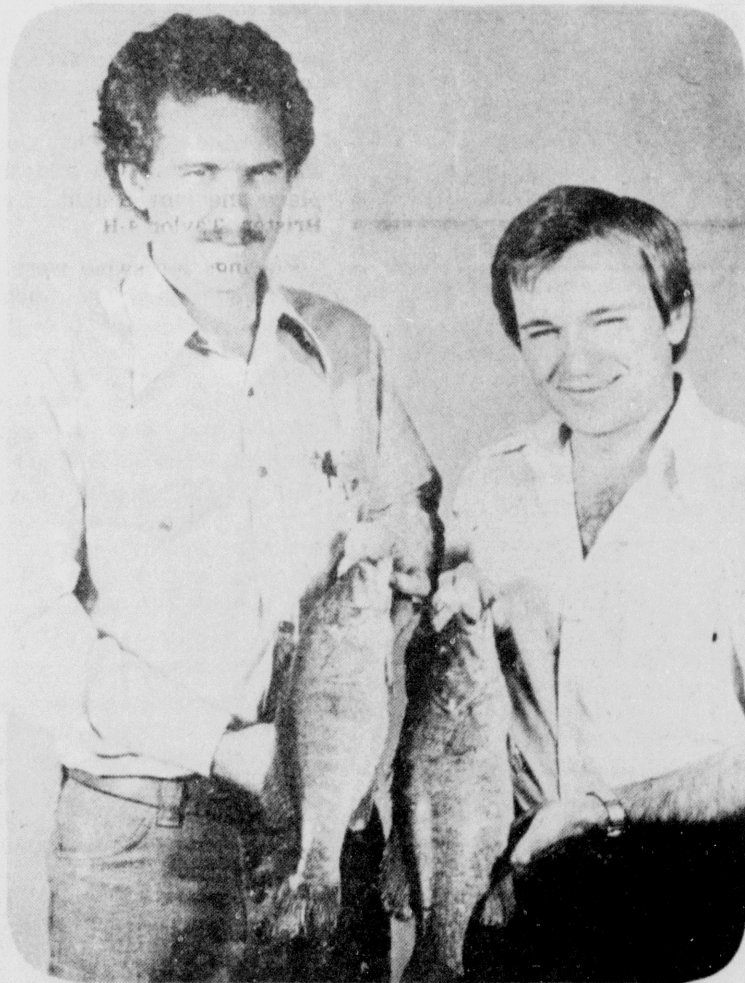

Smallmouths have been stocked by the department in seven bodies of water around Texas — Canyon, Stillhouse Hollow, Meredith, Medina Lake, Guadalupe River, MacKenzie and Amistad. The clear, steep-sided reservoirs do not seem to be suitable habitat for native Texas largemouth bass but smallmouths are doing well.

Smallmouth bass are native to the eastern portion of the United States and the farthest west they are found naturally is Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma.

Parks and Wildlife Department plans call for stocking smallmouths in selected reservoirs and streams for five consecutive years. With the exception of Amistad Reservoir, biologists have documented proof of survival in all stocked areas. But fish stocked in the Rio Grande just below the Amistad dam have been observed.

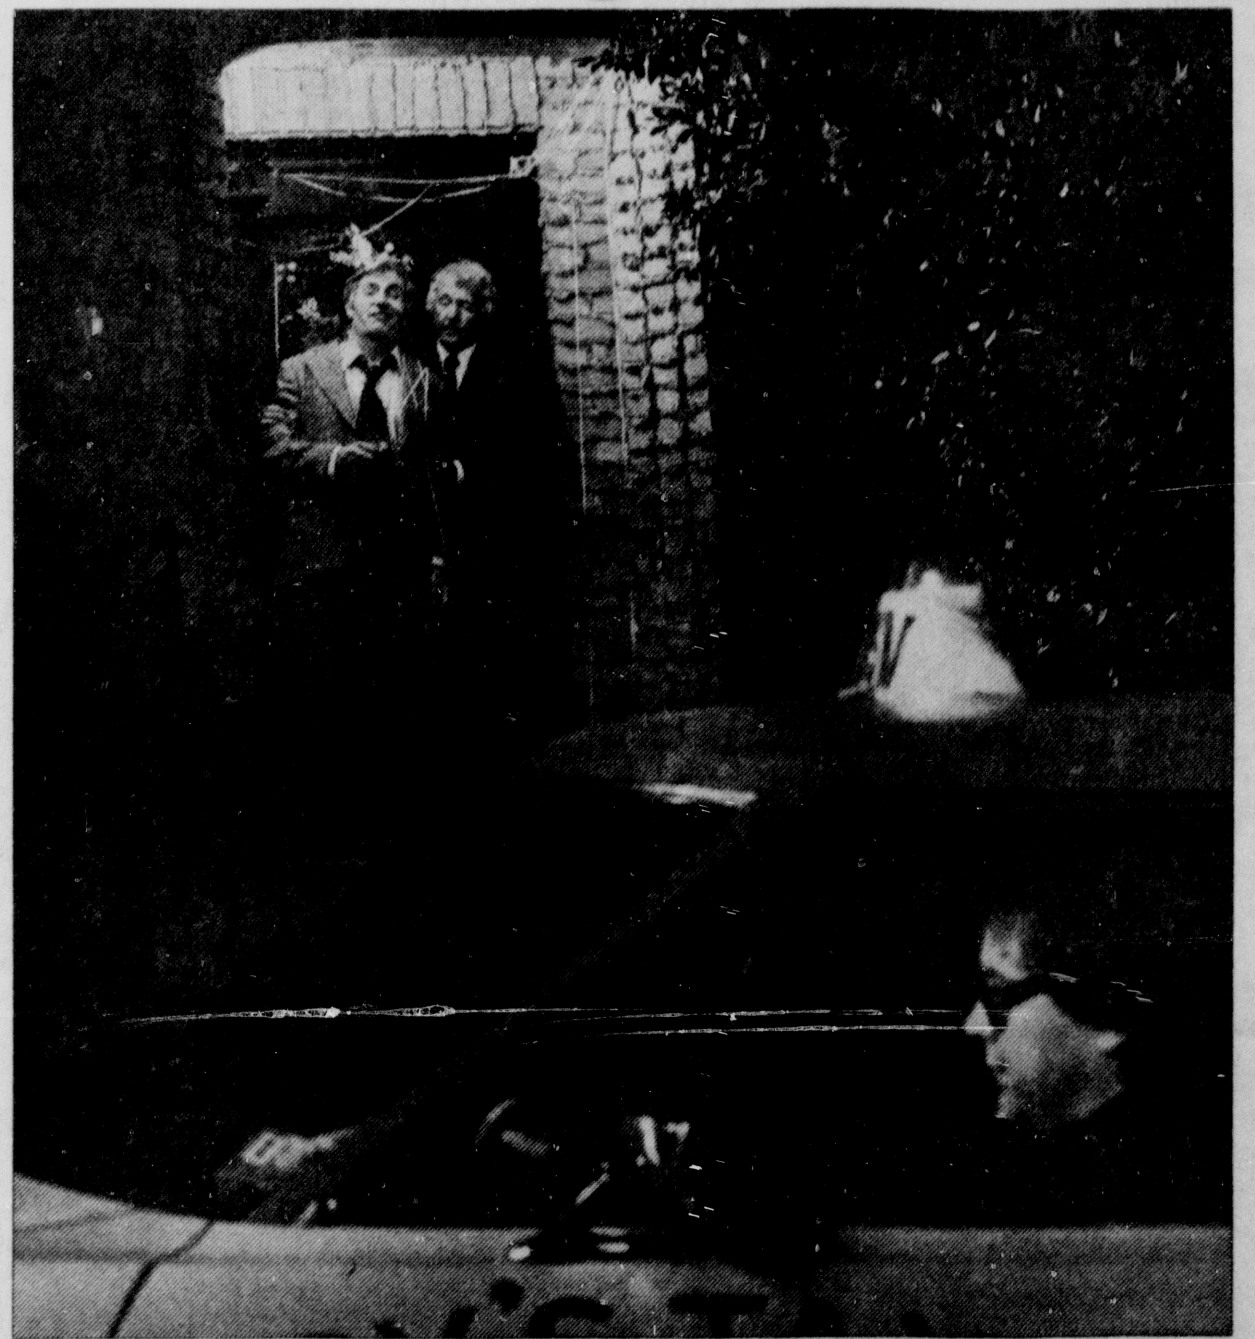

As yet, there is no evidence of reproduction of smallmouths. However, depending on further net samplings in both Canyon and Stillhouse Hollow, 1977 stockings in the two lakes could be suspended for one year to determine if reproduction takes place this spring. Recovery of small bass later in the year would indicate successful reproduction.

Butler said many one- and 1½ pound smallmouth bass are being taken by sport fishermen. Smallmouths are bottom-feeders and anglers must fish deeper than for largemouth bass. Small crayfish fished along the bottom or deep-running lures should be effective this time of year when fishing rocky points in Canyon or Stillhouse Hollow.

SMALLMOUTH BASS which were stocked in Canyon Lake by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in May 1974 are doing well, as shown by the two displayed by biologists Wade Butler and Gary Mooney. The small one weighed 2 lbs. 5 ozs., and the large one 2 lbs. 12 ozs. Smallmouths take lures much in the same manner as largemouths, but generally are found in deeper water along rocky bluffs.

WHEN CLARENCE DUEY of Georgetown planted his garden last August he had no idea something this big would turn up. Duey, sales manager for Georgetown Chrysler-Plymouth, holds his 5 pound turnip with a 25 inch circumference. "I had lots of 2 1/2 to 3 pound turnips, but only one 5 pound one," he said.

When Buying Insulation, Say "R," Not Inches

Ask homeowners how much insulation they should have in their attics, and chances are good they'll say,
"six inches."

But six inches of what? The fact is, all "insulating" materials are not created equal. A six-inch thick blanket of Fiberglas, for example, may have the same
"R" value as a stone wall, 19-feet thick!

According to B.G. Wood-ham, Jr., technical services manager of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, the nation's largest manufacturer of residential insulation,
"R-values stand for a material's ability to resist the passage of heat—heat gain in the warm summer months and heat loss in colder fall and winter seasons."

"The higher a material's R-value," explains Woodham,
"the greater that material's ability to resist the passage of heat through walls and attics."

"One brand of insulation may be thicker than another, but if they're both marked with the same R-value, they'll both resist heat flow equally as well."

Insulation is commonly available in two basic forms—"blanket" form, and "loose fill."

"Blankets are easiest for the do-it-yourselfer to use and help assure the consumer of obtaining a consistent R-value, because they've been

YOU SHOULD KNOW the difference between types of insulation.

facturer to yield a uniform thickness and density," says Woodham.

In most cases, he points out, manufacturers of insulation blankets have marked the R-value of their products on the package. If a product's R-value is not plainly visible, Woodham advises consumers
"to ask their retailer for an explanation, or purchase another brand." As a further assurance of R-value performance, he suggests checking the insulation package for the NAHB (National Association of Home Builders) Research Foundation, Inc. certification label.

Obtaining a desired R-value with loose fill insulation is more difficult. Loose fill consists of finely chopped tufts of loose insulation that are either poured in place or "blown" between studs and joists. "Since the material is not bonded together in a dimensionally consistent blanket, it must be poured or blown to a certain thickness and density in order to achieve a desired R-value," explains Woodham. "While the instructions for achieving this density are sometimes found on the package, there is still a considerable margin for human error, unless the installer is very careful."

As for selecting the proper R-value for the area to be insulated, Woodham recommends that homeowners consult their Fiberglas building materials dealer, or insulation contractor.

HOUSE HUNTING HINTS

Tips To Help You Buy A Low Energy-Per-Month (EPM) Home

a home, know someone who is, or simply want to check the energy efficiency of your present home—it will pay you to know the facts about features that can keep home energy-per-month (EPM) costs at a minimum.

Insulation. Since the majority of home fuel dollars are wasted through the roof and exterior walls, the first thing you'll want to check is insulation.

There are two kinds of insulation. One kind is fabricated into a "bat" or "blanket" configuration that fits neatly in between joists or studs. The second comes in a loose, chopped-up form that is either poured or "blown" into place with special pneumatic equipment.

To check for insulation, look between the floor joists in the attic, between exterior wall studs, around heating and cooling duct work, and between floor joists in crawl spaces.

In older homes—homes built before the late '60s when energy was cheap and plentiful—you may not find any insulation, or at best only a few inches in the attic. In newer homes, homes built after 1970 and homes completed within the past year or so, you might discover as much as 6 to 12 inches of insulation.

How much insulation is enough? Most government, utility and industry experts agree, that at today's high fuel costs, any home should be insulated to current minimum property standards. With batt or blanket type insulation that means a thickness of six inches (R-19) in the attic, and insulation with a thickness of three and one half inches (R-11) in walls and crawl spaces.

With loose-type insulation it's harder to visually judge insulation thickness, although generally 8 1/2 inches in the attic should be the equivalent of R-19.

Two recent studies, one conducted by the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) and the other by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, indicate that if you live

A low "energy-per-month" home will have these features.

1. Attic insulation, six inches or more. 2. Insulation in floors over unheated crawl space. 3. Storm windows and doors. 4. Caulking and weatherstripping around windows and doors. 5. A minimum of 3 1/2 inches insulation in sidewalls. 6. Insulation in basement walls. 7. Adequate attic ventilation. 8. Light-colored roof in warm climates.

9. Shade trees. 10. Properly maintained and adjusted heating and cooling equipment.

In a severe climate, or live in an area where heating and cooling costs are high, 12 or more inches of attic insulation may be economically justified. Even if you live in a milder climate, the studies report, about 10 inches of attic insulation may be economically justified at today's high energy prices.

If the home you're considering exceeds minimum insulation standards in walls and ceilings, your heating and cooling costs will be less than would be the case with a conventionally insulated home. If you discover that basement walls and ductwork have also been insulated, it's a good sign that the home's current owner or builder has paid extra attention to saving energy and money.

Weatherstripping and caulking. After checking for adequate insulation, your next step will be to inspect windows and doors inside and out for weatherstripping and caulking.

Look for weatherstripping

terior doors and door frames and around the inside of all window frames. Pay particular attention to the "threshold plate" at the bottom of door frames. When closed, a door should fit snugly against this plate to prevent air infiltration.

Caulking is used outside around door and window frames to prevent air leaks where these frames join the home's exterior siding.
Properly installed caulking will be "neat" and should form a complete seal around these areas.

Storm windows. Even if you live in a relatively warm (air condition

Opera coming to Georgetown

Texas Opera Theater presents Mozart's comic masterpiece, The Marriage of Figaro, in the Alma Thomas Theatre at Southwestern University on Thursday, February 10, at 8 p.m. as the fifth program in the 1976-77 Artist Series sponsored by the university.

Admission to the Artist Series is by season ticket or single admission for the general public ($2.50 for adults and $1.25 for public school pupils). University personnel and students must present lyceum/activity cards for admission.

Created and sponsored by the Houston Grand Opera, Texas Opera Theater is a resident company of young American artists, administrators and technicians who love to perform on tour. The only professional music theater ensemble in the Southwest, the company's purpose is taking quality opera-in-English "to the people" and has been called "one of Texas' most valuable cultural assets."

OPERA BUFFS AND LAYMEN alike will enjoy Figaro. The characters are delightfully human and the score is straight musical storytelling.

Imagine four amorous couples choreographed in dizzy pursuit, each pressing affections on the other and each wildly jealous of his rival. Add to this fevered madness the most lyrical music in the world and the rustling undertones of social revolution and the result is Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro.

The trick to following and enjoying The Marriage of Figaro is remembering who is

after whom. Susanna and Figaro, personal servants to the Count Almaviva and his countess, are preparing for their wedding festivities. Their nuptial gaiety is complicated by the count's attentions to Susanna, Marcellina's attentions to Figaro, Cherubino's attentions to every body and the countess's poignant love for no one but the count.

AFTER COUNTLESS rendezvous and secret plotting, the couples are reunited with their proper mates. All tomfoolery is forgiven and the proper balances of love are restored. The opera is frosted by a grand wedding scene — Susanna and Figaro marry while Cherubino and Barbarina, the count and countess and Dr. Bartolo and Marcellina look on. It's no wonder that The Marriage of Figaro is the oldest opera in the permanent repertoire of every lyric stage in the western world.

Established four seasons ago as a repertory touring ensemble of Houston Grand Opera, fifth-ranked company in the United States, Texas Opera

Burglaries, thefts reported

During the past week Georgetown police investigated three offense reports, making an arrest in one of the cases, while the Williamson County Sheriff's Dept. checked into two more.

Russell Williamson Tulloch, 19, of Belton, pled guilty before Municipal Judge Timothy Maresh Monday to a charge of Class C theft, paid a $32.50 fine, and was released.

TULLOCH was taken into custody by Sheriff's Deputy Jim Wilson and arrested by patrolman Mike Loney Monday after an employee of Paul's Exxon station identified Tulloch as the man who drove away from the station about 7 a.m. that day without paying for a gasoline purchase.

Wilson stopped the Belton man at RM 2243 and U.S. Highway 183. He was brought back to Georgetown, booked, jailed, and later arraigned before Judge Maresh.

A bicycle theft from the Southwestern University campus was reported later in the week. The owner said the bike is a white 10-speed E-Z Rider with a black seat and black handlebars and the initials

J.A.P. on the bar.

ON THURSDAY the theft of a citizens band radio was reported. The complainant reported a Fanon Fare 120-123 channel black and silver CB was stolen from his vehicle sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday while the car was parked at Georgetown High School. Patrolman Loney reported entry to the vehicle had been gained by use of a coat hanger to unlock one of the doors.

The Sheriff's Dept. was also investigating the theft of a $1,000 welder being used at a construction site on FM 971 about three miles east of Granger. Employees of the Allen Construction Company of San Antonio reported the gray, 200-amp Lincoln welder, serial number A730026, was at the site when they left about 5 p.m. Monday but had vanished at 7 a.m. Tuesday. The welder was reported as being mounted on an almost new trailer with black fenders, also missing. Deputy Oscar Dungan was investigating the case.

AN ATTEMPTED house burglary on Rt. 1 in Round Rock was reported Friday. The complainant told Sheriff's deputies she was at home about 11:25 a.m. Friday when she heard a noise at the front door of her home, then more noises at the back door and the sound of glass breaking. Upon investigation, the complainant said, she saw two black subjects both in their 20's running from the back door.

Deputies Jim Boutwell and Leon Kelley reported part of the back door torn and glass broken out of it, but said entry was not gained.

reason. If we had had beer and wine, we might have encountered a lot of things other cities have, but we haven't. I mean, the jails are full a lot of times, but they're bringing them from somewhere else. I don't have any idea how it will go. Usually the young people are for it, older people are for it to stay dry. More people have voted against it in the past, but every year it's getting harder to keep it dry."

DARLENE MORROW, 106 E. Sixth St. in Georgetown, self-employed and a Georgetown resident three years: "I'm going to vote to lift the restrictions. I don't think it will do any more harm and the kids will stay close in — they're going to get it somewhere, so it might as well be here. It's not going to keep alcoholics from getting it either. I haven't lived here long enough, so it's hard to tell how it will go."

JAMES BROWN, 1010 Railroad St., carpenter and life-long Georgetown resident: "Might as well vote wet. We would have less violations and if we got it around here you could just carry it home. So many don't abide by the law anyway, they drive drunk, that if we had it here I think we'd get along a little better. Look how many DWI's they get every day. Why not legalize it, so people don't have to drive to get it? They're going to have it anyway, so it just doesn't make any sense. I've lived in wet and dry states and the drys had more beer sales than the wets."

JERRY CASPER, 100 Ridgemoor, Austin businessowner and Georgetown resident since May: "I'm for it to remain dry. If there was no other benefit, it would be a benefit to the children. I think for young people who would be inclined to start a drinking habit, they wouldn't start if they couldn't get it. I think it would make Georgetown a better place to live if we didn't have it."

PAM BARTZ, 1908 Hutto, retired: "I'm for it to stay dry. I think maybe people would drink less if it were dry. If people want to drink, that's their privilege and their decision, but it's not wise to make it too easy to buy. I think maybe if we stay dry, there will be less temptation. Maybe people won't go any distance to purchase it. But I really think this time it will go wet. A lot of new people have moved in who think that way. But it won't change my vote."

MARSHA CRAIG, Southwestern University junior music major from Pearsall: "I'm going to vote for it, because I think Round Rock is kind of far to have to drive just to get something to drink. I don't think it will hurt the town any. Most of the students I know are in favor of it, and I think the majority of Southwestern students will vote for it."

DONNIE DOTSON, Jarrell resident: "I can't vote in the election, but I think they ought to get it. This is the only town in the county that's dry. Jarrell, Round Rock, Florence, and Walburg all have it, why shouldn't Georgetown. If they can't get it here, they're just going to drive to Austin, get drunk, then drive back drunk."

MRS. J. T. GARDNER, 1610 Elm St., 25-year Georgetown resident (Mrs. Gardner phoned her opinion in to us): "I'm 'agin' it tee-totally. I've lived in a lot of towns, and this is the nicest, cleanest, most refined, educated town I've ever lived in and I think it's because we're dry. I could give you a whole bookfull of reasons why we shouldn't have wets. But I wish other people would voice their opinion against it, because I'm nervous. I'm afraid too many people enjoy that rotten stuff and won't vote against it."

Local option for Justice Precinct No. 1

Stay dry or go wet? — next Sat. will tell

THERE IS JUST ONE week left until voters go to the polls to determine if Justice Precinct No. 1 will stay dry or go wet.

The local option election will be on Saturday, February 5.

JUSTICE PRECINCT NO. 1 is much bigger than just Georgetown (see map). It includes three county election precincts: Precinct No. 1, Precinct No. 2 and Precinct No. 29.

Election Precinct No. 1 will vote in the south entrance of the courthouse. Election Precinct No. 2 will vote in the west entrance of the courthouse and Election Precinct No. 29 will vote in the Main Fire Station on Main Street in Georgetown.

ALL VOTING BOXES will be open on Saturday from 7 a.m. till 7 p.m.

County Clerk Dick Cervena stressed the fact that local option election ballots are different from the regular county wide election ballots. The local option ballots use the scratch method instead of the usual check method.

THIS MEANS that you scratch out the proposition you do NOT wish to vote for. This leaves only the proposition you wish to vote for showing on your ballot. (see sample ballot)

44 persons had cast absentee ballots by press time on Friday. "That is less than I had expected," said Cervena. "But, it does not necessarily indicate a small turnout next Saturday," he added. There are usually less people voting absentee when the regular election is held on a Saturday.

In casting their ballots, voters can make no distinction between sales for on premises consumption and sales for off premises consumption.

A VOTE to allow beer and wine sales is a vote to allow sales for both on and off-premises consumption. A vote against beer and wine sales is a vote against sales for both on and off premises consumption.

BALLOTS used for local option elections instruct the voter to scratch out the proposition he does NOT wish to vote for, leaving only the proposition he does wish to vote for.

A bit of balm before the next big blast

The sun was shining, the weather was warm, no sign of rain or freezing temperatures marred the afternoon of outdoor pleasure enjoyed by persons in the Georgetown area early this week. Teresa Carlisle, Ricky Carlisle, Teeny Southworth and Glennon Southworth (left) thought that spring might have decided to come early this year as they enjoyed a sunny Thursday in the park. At San Gabriel Park

Terry Alexander, Ernest Robles, Doug Carter and Skip Lyons (right) took advantage of the break in the cold weather to shoot a few baskets and absorb some of those rarely seen sun rays. Now we can all look back on those few warm days at the first of the week as a magical relief from the piercing cold of one of the hardest winters in history. The cold blustery north winds returned to Texas again on Friday bringing winter back with their chilling howls and destroying all hopes that spring might be just around the corner. Temperatures fell below freezing Friday night and were expected to hover in the 40s on Saturday. No precipitation was expected with this newest front, however. Perhaps the sunshine can keep this bit of winter from seeming quite so dreary.

"Paper Of Tacks"

The numberless, now nameless, dry goods store clerks who hand-shaped the "paper of tacks" our ancestors found so useful in mid-19th century America probably never knew they were heroically contributing to this country's development as an industrial giant.

The small, hand-folded paper box packed with carpet tacks and secured by a string was a workable container for carrying home a small supply of fasteners dipped from a wooden crate or barrel at the general store.

Few then realized that the humble paper of tacks would someday help to create sweeping changes in product handling and distribution. From that small folded box came today's unit packaging concept with its multitudes of folding cartons in innumerable styles and sizes.

This article is adapted from a packaging history series created by the St. Regis Paper Company in an effort to rededicate our heritage and renew our pride in our country's achievements.

Scientists scan U.S. food-supply horizon

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia

Americans can remain well-fed and healthy in a starving world only if the United States controls its population, limits immigration, conserves energy and fights soil erosion, food scientists say.

"We would be happier with fewer people better-fed, and that's what we should strive for," said Dr. Garrett Hardin of the University of California, Santa Barbara, a speaker at a recent conference here on food and nutrition sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences.

"You don't solve any of the problems of food shortage by creating more food," he told reporters. "Creating more food merely supports more people."

Dr. David Pimental, professor at Cornell University's College of Agriculture, said in another interview that Americans have "really lived in a gold age" the past three decades, but from now on "it's all downhill."

"We must be concerned about our children, our great-great-grandchildren," Dr. Pimental added. "We must stop increasing our population and conserve the resources that are important to us."

"We must protect the land, stop building highways and housing on first-class land. Our land is more valuable than energy. You can't produce food without land. . . . We must prevent soil erosion. We must conserve energy by going to small cars."

Dr. Hardin opposed suggestions that the United States participate in a world food bank as a means of helping the starving in poor countries.
